Asks U. S. Vessels Enter Combat Zones

Child Missing, Convict Sought

A posse of 400 men continues to scour the wilderness of White Ledge National forests near Conway, N. H., in search for Pamela Hollingsworth, age five, who has been missing since Sunday. Police were also on the lookout for a former convict, with a record of sex offenses, who was believed to have spent Sunday in the picnic grove from which the child vanished. As the father used a sound truck to call for Pamela, authorities said "they feared the girl had been kidnaped.

SEN. CONNALLY URGES ARMING OF ALL SHIPS

Calls For Modification of Neutrality Act; Condemns German 'Defiance.'

LASHES SEA ATTACKS

Congress Reported Ready To Go Beyond Roosevelt Request In Change.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee, today called for modification of the neutrality act to permit arming of U. S. merchant vessels and their use even in the waters of nations at war in conformance with "our historic and traditional" doctrine of freedom of the seas.

Addressing the annual convention of the American Bankers association the senate leader condemned "defiant and truculent" German attacks upon U. S. vessels and urged that this nation's ships be utilized for "lawful missions to the ports of nations at war."

"I favor the removal of the ban against their (U. S. vessels) entering combat zones or going on lawful missions to the ports of nations at war," Connally said. "These are our undeniable rights under the law of nations. . . . Shall we surrender them?"

In connection with proposals to permit arming of American merchant vessels he declared, "It is my view that merchant ships that are now being ruthlessly attacked upon the high seas, while on lawful business, ought to be allowed to arm for the necessary self-defense—for the defense of human lives upon their decks—for the defense of their property and their rights."

Connally predicted that Germany would launch an all-out attempt to subdue Great Britain and drive toward Spain and Portugal in case of a collapse in Russian resistance. He said "overmastering ambition" already had driven Hitler to move toward the re-

Hotel Executives Run Elevators, Do Cooking In Strike

(By Associated Press)

Dignified hotel executives operated elevators and cooked meals today as Pittsburgh's eight principal hotels strove to accommodate 3,500 guests bewildered and inconvenienced by a strike.

The walkout of 2,400 service employes of the hostelries Tuesday midnight left their managers and white collar workers with the necessity of performing menial tasks themselves.

Registrations were being refused and guests had to shift for themselves.

Smaller hotels, unaffected by the strike, were doing a landslide business.

The strike was called by the AFL Hotel and Restaurant Employes International Alliance, seeking wage increases of 15 to 20 per cent for service employes

DODGER HOPES RIDE ON WYATT PITCHING ARM

Best Moundsman of 'Bums' To Try To Turn Back Yank Power In 2nd Game.

McCARTHY UNDECIDED

New York Manager Delays His Pitching Choice But It Looks Like Chandler.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Whitlow Wyatt, star hurler of the national league, today was scheduled to take the mound in an attempt to pull the Brooklyn Dodgers even with the New York Yankees in the second game of the World series.

Wyatt, a right-hander, and a 22-game winner, will be faced by either a fellow-Georgian, Spud Chandler, or "Lefty" Marius Russo. Manager Joe McCarthy said he would announce his choice just before the game-time.

The Yanks, who yesterday mowed down the Dodgers 3-2, entered today's game the favorites, despite the fact Manager Leo Durocher was putting forward his ace hurler. Broadway bookies were making the Yanks 3-2 to take today's game, and 7-2 to take the series.

The weatherman reported that there was little chance of rain interferring in today's contest. Cloudy skies and cool temperatures was the forecast. Like yesterday, today's game will be played in Yankee stadium.

A record series crowd — 68,540 —paid $265,396 and sardined into the flag-draped stadium yesterday. This means that for yesterday's workout each club received $22,-558.66. The players' share is $135,-351.96.

The Yanks, behind the hurling of 36-year-old Charley Ruffing, yesterday took the Dodgers apart with a home run and a scoring single by Joe Gordon, and a timely double by Bill Dickey. They shut off two budding Brooklyn rallies with double plays.

For the veteran Ruffing, it was his sixth straight, and the Yanks, tenth straight, series triumph. Curt Davis, Leo Durocher's last-minute mound selection, was yanked in the sixth, and Hugh Casey and Johnny Allen rounded out the assignment.

Machineguns, Grenades Used In Macedonia

'Calm' Restored By Military Forces; German Firing Squads, Hangings Execute 170 Conspirators In Three Occupied Countries.

(By Associated Press)

A Greek uprising with machineguns, hand grenades and revolvers in Bulgarian-occupied Macedonia was reported today as German firing squads and public hangings were credited with snuffing out the lives of 170 anti-Nazi conspirators in Hungary, Belgium and old Czecho-Slovakia.

The Swiss telegraphic agency quoted dispatches from Budapest as saying the Greeks attempted a revolt today. Police and military forces, it said, "re-established calm."

Authorized Czech quarters in London said the wave of executions in Bohemia-Moravia was aimed at preparing the German-controlled country for the transfer of Germany's heavy industries from bomb-scarred Hamburg, Bremen and Ruhr valley industrial cities.

"It is our belief that the Germans plan to reduce the population to a slave laboring class by killing all leaders capable of carrying on opposition, then move heavy industries to central Europe where they would be out of reach of the RAF."

ROUT GERMANS AT LENINGRAD

Red Defenders Reported To Have Seized Offensive From Nazi Army.

BULLETIN

BERLIN —(AP)— German dispatches from the front late today credited the Russians with making a powerful counter assault on the lower Dnieper river in an attempt to cross the river westward, but said that Hungarian forces defending the sector maintained their hold.

(By United Press)

The Red army defenders of Leningrad today were reported to have seized the initiative from the besieging Germans and to have smashed across the Neva river, routing 15,000 Nazi troops.

Reports from Stockholm and London indicated that for the first time since the Nazi Wehrmacht started to roll across Europe a threatened city had—at least temporarily—turned the tables on the attacking German forces.

British military experts emphasized that the Germans may at any time bring up new and larger forces for the attack on Leningrad but indicated that for the moment the Russians seem to have scored a fairly substantial success.

Reports relayed from Stockholm said that the Russians sallied from their defenses east and southeast of Leningrad in Forty-two persons were reported executed in the Banat—the Hungarian-occupied part of former Yugoslavia — where German military authorities still exercise considerable control—on charges of attempted train wreckings and killing.

Thirty were shot for an alleged plot to assassinate officials. The other 12, described as Communist prisoners, were hanged in public by order of German military authorities in reprisal for a train-wrecking cospiracy.

German officials were reported to have announced that 38 Communists in Hungary's Nagybeckerek prison would be hanged publicly in the event of further violence, and the civil population was held responsible for guarding railways from dusk to dawn from now until Oct. 11.

In the German protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia (former Czecho-slovakia), the execution of two retired brigadier generals and several other unidentified Czechs raised to more than

SLOTS OUT OF CLUBS, LODGES

Most Mansfield Orders Say State's Ban on Gambling Being Observed Here.

Most Mansfield clubs and lodges ormerly maintaining slot machines and other gambling devices reported today they have complied with the state liquor department's recent order banning gambling in establishments operating on private club liquor licenses.

A check of several of the places indicated that slot machines, pinball games and even punchboards had been removed.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates announced that the state department had informed him that a check on the holders of the club and lodge licenses would be made in the next two weeks to see that the order had been obeyed.

Club proprietors said that the machines had been removed during the past week. Operators of novelty companies supplying the machines admitted having removed several since the liquor department issued its cease gambling order.

In some of the clubs, a movement has been started to have the order rescinded. Lodge and club heads have been asked to take part in a letter-writing campaign in an effort to have the gambling machines allowed if they were placed in rooms separated from those used for serving drinks.

State Liquor Director Jacob Taylor in issuing his state-wide order announced that if necessary he would expand his enforcement

Paints Dark Picture For City's Industry

Washington Writer Says Cards Stacked Against Mansfield, Declares U. S. Must Act to Ward Off Extensive Slump.

Mansfield industries are waging an uphill battle for defense contracts to keep their wheels turning and they must have some help from the government or the city will change from "Boom Town to Depression Hollow" in a few months, Alfred Friendly, writer for the Washington Post, said in a recent copyrighted article, one of a series that newspaper is carrying under the heading, "Orphans of Defense."

"The cards are stacked against Mansfield's major industries," Friendly said. "The raw materials that feed its machines are exactly those which the defense program needs and is now pre-empting. The machines themselves, however, are exactly those which the defense program does not want.

"Against heavy odds, Mansfield is putting up a real fight," he continued. "Mansfield can win out in this uphill struggle. But to do it, the drive and ingenuity of its factory managers must be matched by equal effort on the part of the government in routing defense contracts to the consumers' goods factories here."

Pointing out that at least half of the city's 13,000 factory workers are dependent upon the sale of household appliances with nearly 5,000 of them employed at the Westinghouse plant, Friendly said only a few of them are working on defense jobs despite the efforts of plant officials to get government contracts.

He mentioned the $3,173,000 government order for binoculars awarded Westinghouse last month, but added that machinery to make them must be supplied by the government and it probably will not be set up before next spring.

"The binocular contract, at best, will not employ more than 700 of the plant's workers. Other contracts must be obtained," he said.

He quoted Westinghouse officials as saying that "somewhere and someplace, there's something in the defense program we can make."

Friendly's analysis of the Mansfield picture has a different tone from the story published several

HELPS FARMERS

Rain Today To Be Followed By More Tomorrow.

A cold rain but one that farmers welcomed fell on Richland county before noon today, bringing .12 of an inch of moisture to parched wheat fields and pasture lands.

The weatherman promised more of it tonight and Friday and then he added another cheerful note for farmers, predicting it will be warmer tomorrow.

Overcast skies and a low reading of 43 degrees this morning forced Mansfielders to revive the fires in their furnaces and reminded them again that freezing weather is not far away.

Despite the low reading, however, the average yesterday was less than a degree below normal. The mercury stood at 56 degrees at noon today as compared with a high of 74 yesterday afternoon.

Invites Industry To Conference on Mansfield 'Crisis'

Invitations to a meeting to organize a joint labor, management and government program to curtail hardships resulting from the threatened curtailment of manufacturing here because of the defense program, went out today to 24 industrial leaders in Mansfield and nearby communities.

The meeting, which grew out of conference of labor and industrial officials a week ago, has been set for 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce, according to C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the Ohio Employment service, who issued the invitations.

Robert Glenn, of the Cleveland division of the Office of Production Management, who last week called Mansfield's situation "one of the gloomiest" in his records, will meet with the industrialists.

The session will follow a conference which Glenn will have at 9 a. m. on the same day with a group of CIO union representatives and at 11 a. m. with AFL representatives.

GET SUSPECT

Police Arrest Youth In Death of Golfer; Mother Dies.

LEXINGTON, Ky. — (AP) — Night Police Chief Dudley McCloy said today a suspect had been arrested at Shelbyville, Ky., in the slaying of Marion Miley, nationally known golf star, and the fatal wounding of her mother, Mrs. Elsa Miley, here Sunday.

Police Chief Roy S. Jones of Shelbyville, about 50 miles west of Lexington, reported the suspect, about 17 years old, was being held without charge.

Mrs. Miley, 50, died late yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital of three abdominal wounds about seven hours after funeral services for her daughter.

The women were shot by two masked intruders who entered their apartment at the fashionable Lexington Country club and demanded receipts of a Saturday night dance.

'ALL-OUT' TAX

Morgenthau Says Great Part of U. S. Income Needed.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau today called for a program of "all-out" taxation as an indispensable method of paying for defense without inflation.

Morgenthau pointed out that while defense expenditures have now risen to more than a billion and a quarter dollars a month, and are still rising, "they will be utterly inadequate compared to the need." He said it would require an all-out effort "on our part" to tip the scales in this war.

"It is imperative that we set aside a great part of the national income, and especially the increase in the national income, if we are to put an effective brake upon inflation," Morgenthau told the annual convention of the American Bankers association.

British Will Get More Fats, Sugar After November 17

LONDON —(U.P.)— Britain will increase fat and sugar rations effective Nov. 17, it was announced today.

An official announcement said that beginning Nov. 17 the fat ration would be increased 25 per cent, from eight ounces to 10 ounces. The sugar ration will be increased 50 per cent from eight ounces to 12 ounces.

Officials recalled that only last week Italians were forced to tighten their belts when rationing of bread, corn meal and even clothing was ordered.

An official source said that the increase in rations, especially sugar, was due to very generous "assistance" from the United States.

WORK GOES ON

Quartermaster Says Pickets Fail To Halt Production.

SANDUSKY —(INS)— Refuting claims that an AFL picket line had tied up production at the government's $32,000,000 Plum Brook ordnance plant, Captain Frank Ray, construction quartermaster, today maintained that only 175 out of 5,500 employes are not at their respective benches.

The picket line was established yesterday when AFL field workers, including material checkers, time checkers and tool checkers, struck for higher wages, forcing 270 truck drivers and 105 steel workers into idleness by tying up supplies.

Captain Jermain Rodenhauser, commanding officer, who called the situation "serious," declared he and Ray would confer with AFL officials from Cleveland today in an attempt to settle the dispute.

HAILS CHANGE

Bricker Says Amended Compensation Law Doubly Beneficial.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The new amendment to state unemployment compensation law was hailed today by Gov. John W. Bricker as protecting the rights of both employers and employes.

Savings in taxes by many employers as a result of reduced contribution rates effective next January were pointed out by Bricker, who placed particular emphasis on sections of the amended law protecting benefit rights of men in military service.

Mansfielders Like Their Liquor—They Pay Out More Than Half a Million for Drinks In 1940

Mansfield tipplers liked their liquor in 1940. What's more, they didn't mind paying more than a half million dollars for it.

The annual report of State Liquor Director Jacob B. Taylor released today revealed that $586,328 was spent by the drinking population in the Mansfield area during 1940.

Mansfield's drink was only a drop in the state bucket which showed that Ohioans paid out $58,235,747 for liquor during the year, largest annual receipts in the history of the state liquor monopoly.

Although the state average sales for "quick ones" was $8.43 for every man, woman and child, in Mansfield $14.65 worth of liquor was sold for every person living here.

Ohioans put the potent drink of 8,118,594 gallons of assorted liquors under their belts during the year—more than enough to fill 1,000 ordinary railroad tank cars.

Liquor sales in Mansfield totaled $586,328 with net profits reaching $96,169. The state liquor store on South Park street reported sales of $440,386 and profit of $67,281 while the store on North Main street had $145,942 in sales and $28,724 as net profit.

Shelby reported sales of $58,745 and profit of $6,653, Galion, $110,383 and $17,818; Bucyrus, $90,306 and $13,030; Ashland, $91,685 and $17,185, and Elyria, $401,907 and $65,281.

The largest part of the state's imbibing population, Taylor's report indicated, like their whisky. Eighty-nine per cent of all liquor sold during 1940 was whisky and 60 per cent of all whisky sold was bourbon. Gins were second with slightly under 7 per cent, brandy counted for less than 1 per cent, rum hit 1.3 and cordials and other mixed drinks, 1.4 per cent. Only 5.7 per cent of the whisky was imported.

The earnings for 1940, $17,266,217, represented an increase of $1,549,000 from 1939; $3,700,000 from 1938, and $1,367,000 from 1937. A breakdown of the 1940 profit shows $9,147,622

Warns 3 Months Left to Correct Record of Wages

Richland county workers whose earnings for 1937 were incorrectly reported to the social security board have only three more months to request a correction in their wage record for the year, Edward S Broughton social security manager in the Mansfield district, said today

He pointed out that the federal law gives workers four years after the year the wages in question were received to correct the record.

Broughton's office in the Richland Trust building will furnish free post cards for use in making the requests for corrections. The cards require only a one-cent stamp. Workers must sign their requests for correction and wage statements.

Baby Blitz Taxes Facilities of North Carolina Hospital.

HICKORY, N. C.—(AP)—Four boys were born in quick succession at a hospital here, and four girls followed soon thereafter. The following day seven more babies were born—a virtual baby blitz that taxed the hospital facilities.

But Harry Steelman explained it all. He saw a stork—so he said—standing on 15th street.

The bird seemed to be preening himself. "And he looked just like he was going for another load," Steelman added. Next day the hospital reported five new babies.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count oft times may mean you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles when they have been weakened by simple anemia. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. 49c.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1941

Bridges to Australia is a part of the defense program that is now up to the department of justice.

October is here, usually one of the most delightful outdoor months of the year. Enjoy it to the fullest.

Out west, not long ago, a dozen men worked 260 hours to rescue a dog that had fallen into a rocky crevise—other men drive recklessly and endanger the lives of human beings.

Double Taxation Under Protest

UNLESS a change is made from present intentions Ohioans are in for an additional tax gouging as a result of being required to pay sales tax on the 10 per cent federal tax which became effective yesterday on a number of commodities.

State Tax Commissioner William S. Evatt, who insists that "tax on tax is nothing new in Ohio," estimates that the sales tax on the federal tax will add $450,000 annually to sales tax receipts, which are already running around $10,000,000 a year above intended requirements.

The new federal excise tax, as it is added to the specified items of merchandise, becomes a part of the sale price on which the Ohio sales tax is to be computed, according to Mr. Evatt.

When it is considered that Ohio's so-called 3 per cent retail sales tax is in reality an average 6 to 7 per cent tax—reaching 10 per cent on dime items and touching 100 per cent at two spots, (41 and 71-cent purchases) the gouging to which Ohioans are being subjected is more fully realized.

And when it is further considered that an immense surplus of state funds is being piled up through excessive taxation, because of Governor Bricker's refusal to call a special session of the legislature to reduce taxes, public dissatisfaction is better understood.

The sales tax was originally enacted for the benefit of schools, local governments and poor relief funds. Local governments have been deprived of fair participation in this fund and a substantial part of sales tax revenues have been diverted to unintended state purposes.

The state sales tax, when originally assessed, was regarded by the people of Ohio as a temporary measure, designed to meet an emergency condition, but, as usual, tax spenders have found arguments for its continuance.

THERE IS NO GOOD REASON WHY OHIO'S SALES TAX SHOULD NOW BE ABOVE AN HONEST 2 PER CENT, NOR IS THERE ANY JUSTIFICATION FOR COLLECTING THE TAX ON TOP OF THE FEDERAL TAX.

What do you say, Governor Bricker?

Take Advantage of Courtesy

OBSERVATION reveals that some of the most impudent and arrogant persons who ignore traffic lights while passing through Mansfield are out-of-state motorists who presume on customary courtesy to an unwarranted extent.

There is an inclination in all states to treat tourists in a kindly way, assuming that they may not be familiar with local traffic regulations, but a red light at a street intersection means STOP, in whatever state you may be traveling and there is no good reason why an out-of-state car should be permitted to dash through intersections without paying any attention to traffic signals—as is quite regularly done in Mansfield, and probably in many other Ohio cities.

It is constantly urged that Ohio motorists who travel in other states acquaint themselves with traffic regulations in each of the states they visit, and drive accordingly.

Considering the frequency with which out-of-state cars are involved in Ohio accidents—many in this vicinity—it appears that visiting motorists need have their attention directed to Ohio traffic laws—even to the extent of imposing penalties in cases of deliberate violation of safety regulations.

Welcome and Unwelcome Sportsmen

HERE'S a story with a happy ending. It's about a grouchy farmer and a vicious dog, and is told by J. W. Munsell, who writes a column on "Fishing and Hunting." It appears that Mr. Munsell had been told by a number of sportsmen that a certain farmer in a region where hunting and fishing both were good wouldn't let anybody on his property and kept a savage dog to help enforce his rule.

Mr. Munsell decided he ought to look into the matter. He found the farmer hoeing potatoes, and the dog as dangerous looking as advertised. The investigator kept his natural anxiety well under control. He stopped about thirty feet away from the farmer, so the dog wouldn't think his master needed defending, and conversation began.

The farmer was pleasantly surprised at his visitor's courage and said so. They moved to the porch where the talk ranged freely over many matters. It developed that the farmer formerly had let people fish and hunt on his property. Some of them were all right. Others cut wire fences, broke down wooden ones, let stock out, shot sheep and hogs, and did so much damage that he had to stop it all. However, he offered his caller a written permit to hunt and fish on the farm, and they parted friends.

It's the old story of privileges being withdrawn because they were abused. A few selfish and destructive individuals can make trouble for large numbers of well-behaved folks. Courtesy pays for sportsmen as for others.

Education Still Important

A COLLEGE PRESIDENT, speaking to an audience of new students, recognizes that their college tenure in a time like this is uncertain. But he urges them to "continue in their studies as earnestly as they can, and as long as it is possible."

It is good advice. And the government seems to be co-operating in this effort. Recent news from the Selective Service headquarters at Washington tells of directions issued to local boards to postpone the drafting of college students until they have finished the semesters or quarter-terms of study in which they are now engaged. It is specified, however, that students thus favored must be enrolled in good faith and be in good scholastic standing.

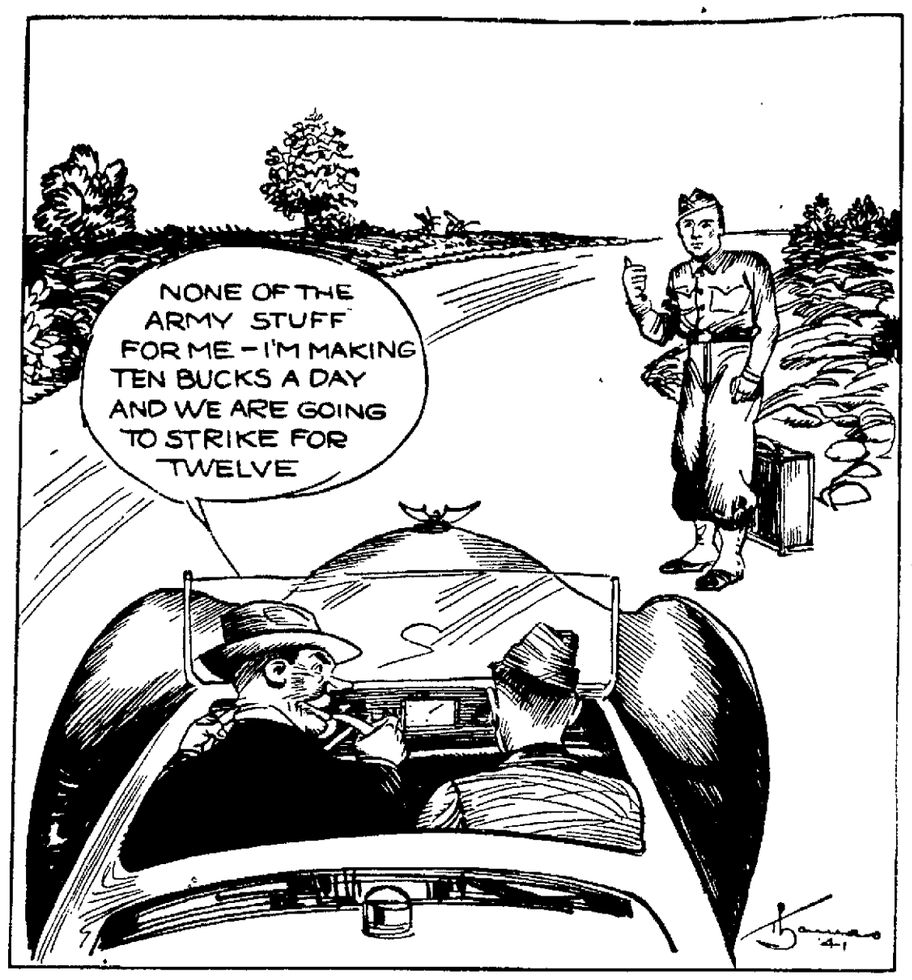
Wherever you happen to be, if there is no Roosevelt there one of them will probably arrive within the next few minutes.

GIVING THE SOLDIER A LIFT



Consider More Pay for Soldiers

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Very shortly now, a million or more boys, their families, kinfolk and girl friends will cock their ears at a little room in the west wing of the Capitol, for there a subcommittee of the senate military affairs committee will hold hearings on whether soldiers' pay should be raised.

If you want to bet, bet that it will be—because the straws in the wind are blowing in that direction.

When Sen. Lister Hill, chairman of the subcommittee, whip of the Democratic side of the senate, and one of the chief administration spokesmen on military affairs, introduced the resolution which has brought about the hearing, he included in it that the investigation was to be held "with a view to" increasing army pay.

When the draft extension bill was passed, the pay increase amendment came out of the anti-administration ranks. There was a marked absence of debate on the floor opposing the increase of $10 a month for all men in service a year or more. When it came to a vote, party lines crumbled and the amendment went through.

The Question: How Much?

THERE already are two bills before the senate providing for the increase and the report of the committee probably will be based on one of these.

One, by Sen. Sheridan Downey, California Democrat, would increase the army pay $30 a month — but with the proviso that the increase would be paid the men monthly after their discharge from the service. Sen. Ed Johnson, Colorado Democrat, has a bill which would increase army pay 25 per cent (officers excepted).

Senator Hill makes no bones about his views. He says soldiers' pay is low and should be increased.

"The question," he says, "is how much, and that is the reason we want to hold hearings and gather information from officials of the war and navy departments, the marine corps and the coast guard."

Bonuses Possible.

ARMY pay now starts at $21 a month for privates with less than four months' training. After four months, unless a man has shown himself unfit or completely inefficient, his pay climbs to $30. This is known as "seventh grade" and if a private stays in that class for eight months more, he receives $40.

But this is only the pay scale for "buck privates." Privates first class, get $36; corporals, $54; sergeants, $60; staff sergeants, $72; first sergeants, $84; and master sergeants, $126. In each case, of course, there is $10 more for all men who have served more than a year. Add to that the bonuses, ranging from $3 to $30 a month for specialists (electricians, mechanics, radio operators, etc.) There also are bonuses for decorations and awards.

You Still Won't Get Rich.

MEN in the armed forces also get food, clothing, medical and dental attention without charge. There are other compensations, such as free entertainment, special rates for movies, low railroad fares.

All of this doesn't mean that the army can dispense with that ancient ditty, "You'll never get rich." At least, I haven't heard of any draftees planning to retire on their savings from army pay.

But if congress goes through, as some are convinced with another hike in army pay, the fighting game in the already best-paid force in the world is going to be getting itself into competition, from a remunerative standpoint, with some of our better known underpaid professions.

Dragging the Flag

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(I saw a photo the other day. There was a mine train in the picture, backing downgrade beyond the engineer's control. On either side of the track there were men. The men were stretching something across the track, directly in front of the speeding wheels. That something was—a large American flag. The men, members of a certain union, were trying to enforce a strike . . . "demanding their rights." As though someone had touched a button, another picture came back to me, over many years.)

I SHOULD have been in bed—but wasn't. Things were happening. Curious things. So, from my favorite hiding place behind the old sofa, I watched.

There was a poor man, in a shabby coat, sitting on one side of a battered table facing other men. The poor man was speaking. As he spoke, his voice rose . . . fell . . . boomed. His scarred hands clenched, reached out. Was he angry? Sad? I could not tell. Even the words he said did not make sense to my eight-year-old ears.

"They have a right . . . they have a right . . ." he said. But who were "THEY" . . . and what was their "RIGHT"? And why were the other men frowning? It was years before I knew the answer- but those four words have lived in my heart ever since.

The poor man was my father. The others were local merchants. The unseen audience, for whom my father pleaded, were workers, demanding unionization. So, for the first time, a realization of Labor came into my life . . . Labor which, then, worked twelve hours a day for six full days per week without vacation and at a wage which many a modern share-cropper might despise.

"THEY HAVE A RIGHT" . . . To me, those words have always been a pledge. They should. I think, be a pledge to every American citizen. They are a symbol of all the things for which America stands. Labor has a right—and to far more than a mere "living wage." It has a right to that recognition and respect which preserves the dignity of human life. It has a right to take its place at any council table where human welfare is being discussed . . . a right to air its views even though those views be mistaken.

But "rights" are strange things. They're not automatic . . . nor guaranteed. We must merit and maintain them. They are respected only to the extent that we, ourselves, make them worthy of respect. The day we cheapen them the world will hold them cheap. We write our own price tags. Which brings me back to that picture.

THE MEN WHO DRAGGED THAT FLAG ACROSS THE TRACK DRAGGED MORE THAN A FLAG. THEY DEGRADED THE CAUSE OF LABOR EVERYWHERE — UNDID ITS PROGRESS — CONFIRMED EVERY CHARGE OF UNFITNESS AND UNFAIRNESS WHICH THEIR ENEMIES HAVE BROUGHT AGAINST THEM.

And this goes for every worker in these United States who is using his power to take unfair advantage during the gravest national emergency we have known.

"They have a right" — they have, indeed.

BUT IF THEY DRAG THAT RIGHT IN THE GUTTER, WHO SHALL HONOR IT?

(Copyright, 1941)

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Some Inspiring Feats Performed By Armies Training In Louisiana

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WITH THE THIRD ARMY—The Third Army is the largest and one of the best of the new citizen armies.

Made up of regulars, national guardsmen, inductees and reservists from every part of the country, it is a true cross section of the U. S. A. and a very inspiring one. It is patriotic, high-spirited, fit and eager to learn.

Throughout the big Louisiana war games the men of the Third Army, in heat and downpour, over gruelling swamp and woodland, displayed a spirit of scrappy aggressiveness and tenacity that kept their enemy (Second Army) constantly on the defensive. From reconnaissance patrols to army corps every unit of the Third was full of fight and determination to win.

Some of the feats of this new army, still a fledgling force learning the arts of war, were remarkable. For example:

In the first two days of the first phase of the maneuvers the 43rd, 37th and 38th divisions of national guardsmen marched over 50 miles and then went immediately into combat.

This is an outstanding military performance and on a par with the best displayed by crack German infantry, which underwent training for seven years. It graphically demonstrates the superb physical fitness and esprit of these citizen soldiers.

Another example was the extraordinary feat of the 1st Cavalry Division fording the Sabine river at night with all its heavy motor and artillery equipment (400 vehicles) to pounce early in the morning on the unsuspecting west flank of the enemy and capture a large part of its gas supplies. To cross this treacherous stream the doughty division had to haul over 7-ton trucks and 155 caliber guns weighing 4,500 pounds.

The Third Army has all the elements of a great combat force in the finest American tradition. It isn't that yet, but it is well on the way. It still has a lot to learn, from buck private to commanding general.

But what distinguishes the men of the Third is their will to learn, their aggressiveness and pride as citizen soldiers.

Note—As is the case in the other citizen armies, chief deficiency of the Third Army is lack of small unit (platoon and company) training. This is primarily due to inexperienced non-commissioned and company officers.

"The Old Man."

PRINCIPAL credit for the excellence of the Third is due Lieut. General Walter Krueger, commander, and his crack staff of assistants.

Slender, of middle height and incisive, Krueger rose from the ranks and is a militant practitioner of the Stonewall Jackson dictum of "surprise, mystify and mislead the enemy." During the war games it was his troops who three times attempted the daring stroke of capturing the opposing commanding general and did succeed in "killing" his chief of staff.

Although very much a man of action and constantly on the go, Krueger also is a scholar. He speaks four languages, is an alert student of foreign military techniques and modern methods. When well over fifty he took a flying course at Brooks Field and travels almost entirely by plane. Krueger was long known in the army as one of its top organizers and executives; in the Louisiana war games he also demonstrated that he is a very able and forceful field general.

One of the best indications of his high caliber is the crack staff with which he has surrounded himself. It is without peer in the U. S. army and has some of the best technical brains of the army.

Chief among these younger aces is Colonel Dwight Eisenhower, chief of staff, who conceived and directed the strategy that routed the Second Army. Eisenhower has a steel-trap mind plus unusual physical vigor. To him the military profession is a science and he began watching and studying the German army five years ago.

Eisenhower's deputy chief of staff is another crack army braintruster. He is Lieut. Colonel Al Gruenther, leading bridge ace of the army and a shining star of the general staff until Krueger wangled him for his staff. Both Eisenhower and Gruenther are destined for bigger things in the army. They are men to watch, with Major General R. C. Richardson, commander of Second Army's 8th Army Corps, and one of the most brilliant field generals of the service.

Note—Richardson, Eisenhower and Gruenther are of that rare military species, regular army officers who can think in terms of the civilian and the citizen soldier.

"Cajun" Soldier.

THE historic Arcadian ("Cajun") section of Louisiana in and about which the war games took place was a never ending source of interest to the thousands of citizen soldiers.

The local people were extremely friendly and hospitable and were as intrigued with the soldiers as they were with them. Practically all doors were open and the two weeks of maneuvers were a delightful experience to both groups. The towns in which the two armies operated hotly took sides and celebrated or despaired as the tide of war fluctuated.

But locally the real heroes were the "Cajun" soldiers. They were the pride and glory of the "Cajun" country and stories abounded about them. One regarded with great relish throughout the Third Army, which prides itself on its military discipline, was about a young "Cajun" recruit who failed to salute his colonel. The colonel stopped him and said, "How long have you been in the army?"

"Two months," was the pleasant answer, "and you?"

"Shavetails" and Generals.

GREATEST personnel problem of the new citizen army is second lieutenants and field generals.

Most of the former are too green to know what it is all about and the latter too old to learn. Being young, eager to learn and bright, most of the "shavetails" can be taught. Some of the generals will be replaced by younger and more adaptable officers.

Note—During a day of hot fighting in the maneuvers, one general commanding a division at the front calmly stretched out on two camp chairs in the shade near his tent and read a newspaper while enemy bombers made a dive attack on his headquarters. If they had been using live bombs the general and his headquarters would have been blasted to smithereens.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—James Melton's favorite story concerns the hillbilly who was making his first airplane flight across the country and who had just sold an original story to a movie company for an enormous sum.

The plane made a stop, and a fuel truck rushed up, filled the plane's tanks with gas, and rolled off again. The plane took off and a couple of hours later it came down again, to be met by a fuel truck that dashed up as soon as the plane had settled on the runway. This happened several times during the day, and each time a fuel truck met the plane with gas.

Finally, a passenger turned to the hillbilly and observed, "We're making terrifice time, aren't we."

"Yeah," agreed the genius, "and that fuel truck ain't doing bad either."

IT'S A lengthening parade of familiar names that is winding along Broadway's stage alleys these days. . . . Big, tall, Sinclair Lewis is one of them. . . . "Red," as his friends know him, has paused work on his novel to direct a play. . . . He lives at an apartment in 49th street. "Red" just can't seem to throw off the acting bug, and for the life of me I can't see why a Nobel prize winner would want to become an actor. Even his last novel was about the theater. The theater undoubtedly has its charm, but it will not be as a thespian or even as a director that the "Main Street" man is remembered.

A Farmer's Diary

Fable for Critics

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A MAN whose wife, after reading my column, decided they ought to move out on a farm, and would give him no peace until they did it, accused me the other day of being a farm "propagandist." So I went to the dictionary and looked up 'propaganda.' It comes from the Latin verb, propagare, meaning to propagate, to cause to spread or extend, e. g. to propagate light. All in all, quite a decent word—and right now, stylish.

One of the big chains of American newspapers has for its emblem a lighthouse tower and for its motto, "Give the people light and they will find their own way." Propaganda isn't necessarily a bad thing — without it we'd have no missionaries.

Which makes me remember noticing that Reader's Digest, that American connoisseur and culler of current writings, is soon to put out a Portuguese edition. Already it is printed in Spanish and well received by most of the Spanish-speaking countries of South America. But Portuguese, it seems, will be read by Brazilians—the farmers who grow our coffee can know us better. That seems to me like worthwhile propaganda to say the least.

Another friendly critic claims that I repeat the "peace and contentment theme" too often.

Well, the farm is the serenest, most peaceful place to live, in these troubled times. At least on days when a lightning bolt doesn't blitzkrieg down and strike the barn, or hail doesn't strip our cornfield, or the mortgage isn't foreclosed. These things happen, to be sure, but only once or twice in the average lifetime. We farmers expect storms and try to be ready for them. Sometimes we're afraid, but always, afterward, the air is clearer. There's another day, another try, another crop. By keeping steadily at it, through the years, we forge ahead—how far, we ourselves cannot always realize, for we are so small and the years go by so fast. The past is gone, the future is still in the haze. We have only now.

Just now the farm is beautiful with autumn coloring, and although the wind is high, the corncrib is full and the cellar is stocked for winter. Shall we sit down and worry, then, because storm warnings are out and winter is on the way?

Shall we hole ourselves in and moan because war warnings are out and the world writhes in pain and terror? Or shall we tighten our belts and whistle, even while we hurry to bolt the doors and close the windows — knowing in our hearts that the old farmhouse is founded upon a Rock and that we are determined to keep it there?

Pastor Collects Over 2,000 Epitaphs That Joke At Death

(By Associated Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Dr. Robert H. McCaslin collects men's jests with death.

Dr. McCaslin, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church here, has several notebooks filled with about 2,0000 unusual epitaphs from all over the world.

The strange hobby started when he was walking through a village churchyard in Middle Tennessee years ago. The villager with him pointed to four tombstones in a row, and said:

"I've had four wives to die. Now I'm living with my fifth."

On each of the four stones was the same verse:

"Another link is broken in the happy band,
"But a chain is forming in a better land."

Since that incident, Dr. McCaslin has found hundreds of interesting "last words" in many places, and others have been sent him.

"One, written by a sardonic New Jersey widow for her husband, reads:

"Meant Well, Tried a Little, Failed Much."

A New England man's children told his woeful tale in poetic vein:

"Ma loved Pa, Pa loved women
"Ma caught Pa with two in swimmin'.

"Here lies Pa."

The code of the Old West is portrayed in the single line on a rough, natural rock gravestone found in Cripple Creek, Colo.:

"He called Bill Smith a liar."

A 19th century lass bared her sorrows to the world in the inscription:

"The wedding day decided was,
"The wedding wine provided.
"But ere the day has come along
"He'd drunk it up, and die did.
"Ah, Sydney! Sydney "

A New York wag's epitaph says only:

"Guess Who."

While over a London cook in writtten:

'Peas to his hashes."

The one Dr. Cashn likes best, though, isn't comical at all. It's a sentimental sentence from a stone in Old Grayfriar's Churchyard at Edinburgh, Scotland:

"Think what a wife should be —she was that."

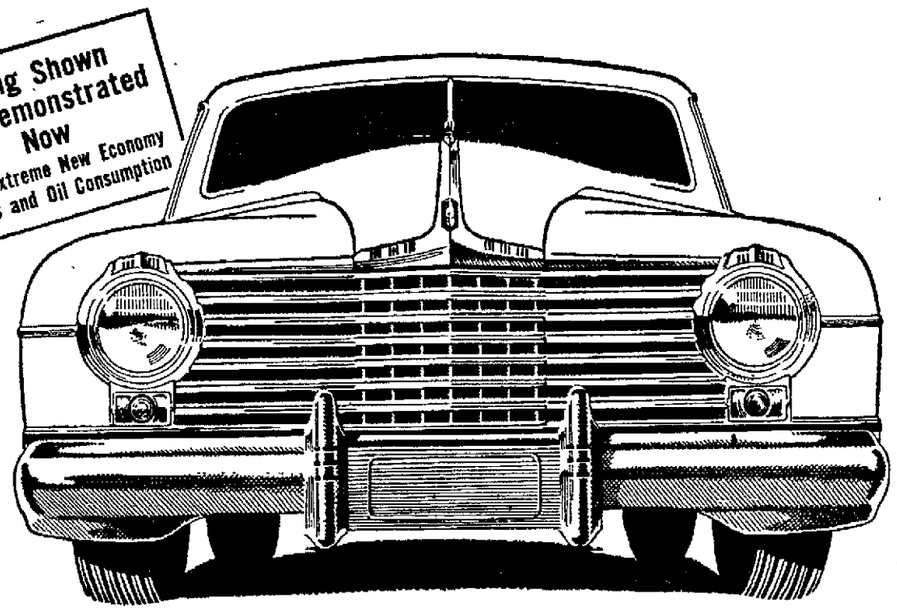
There Can Be No Curtailment of Dodge Quality ... No Substitute for Dodge Dependability

Being Shown and Demonstrated Now
With Extreme New Economy in Gas and Oil Consumption



TUNE IN MAJOR BOWES, C. B. S., THURSDAYS, 9 TO 10 P. M., E. S. T.

The New and the Finest Dodge

EVERY MAN OR WOMAN who buys one of these new Dodges will get for his money the very finest car that Dodge has ever turned out. He will get it, of course, from a smaller total production, because the Government of the United States has first call upon Dodge factories and men. But, we repeat, every civilian buyer of Dodge motorcars will receive for his investment all of the traditional Dodge quality at higher levels of endurance, performance and economy than Dodge has ever supplied them before.

Power-Flow Engine—For All-Fluid Drive

He will get, literally, the climax value of twenty-seven years of fine car engineering. He will get the phenomenal success of Dodge All-Fluid Drive. He will get the new Power-Flow Engine, designed and adapted as the more powerful complement to the fluid smoothness of Dodge All-Fluid Drive. He will get a motorcar of lifetime lasting qualities, in which riding and driving have become almost the same thing—except that the driver gets the added joy of command.

Is This Asking Too Much?

People by the hundreds who have driven the new Dodge say almost the same thing. They say they could not, and would not, go back to the old way of driving. It is not asking too much, we believe, that you investigate these revolutionary Dodge qualities.

You should experience the ebb and flow of Dodge power, at any speed, in any traffic, with or without shifting gears as you may wish. You should measure its new economy against the old, and realize that Dodge, all by itself, has turned the corner into a new day of motorcar performance, long life, and Dependability.

Dependability—Forever the Watchword

It is unquestionably true that fewer cars will be built this coming year, according to your own defense requirements. But, above all, it is true that there can never occur any curtailment of Dodge motorcar quality—and no substitute, ever, for Dodge Dependability.

A new Dodge car is a basic investment for the years.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1941

Bridges to Australia is a part of the defense program that is now up to the department of justice.

October is here, usually one of the most delightful outdoor months of the year. Enjoy it to the fullest.

Out west, not long ago, a dozen men worked 260 hours to rescue a dog that had fallen into a rocky crevise—other men drive recklessly and endanger the lives of human beings.

Double Taxation Under Protest

UNLESS a change is made from present intentions Ohioans are in for an additional tax gouging as a result of being required to pay sales tax on the 10 per cent federal tax which became effective yesterday on a number of commodities.

State Tax Commissioner William S. Evatt, who insists that "tax on tax is nothing new in Ohio," estimates that the sales tax on the federal tax will add $450,000 annually to sales tax receipts, which are already running around $10,000,000 a year above intended requirements.

The new federal excise tax, as it is added to the specified items of merchandise, becomes a part of the sale price on which the Ohio sales tax is to be computed, according to Mr. Evatt.

When it is considered that Ohio's so-called 3 per cent retail sales tax is in reality an average 6 to 7 per cent tax—reaching 10 per cent on dime items and touching 100 per cent at two spots, (41 and 71-cent purchases) the gouging to which Ohioans are being subjected is more fully realized.

And when it is further considered that an immense surplus of state funds is being piled up through excessive taxation, because of Governor Bricker's refusal to call a special session of the legislature to reduce taxes, public dissatisfaction is better understood.

The sales tax was originally enacted for the benefit of schools, local governments and poor relief funds. Local governments have been deprived of fair participation in this fund and a substantial part of sales tax revenues have been diverted to unintended state purposes.

The state sales tax, when originally assessed, was regarded by the people of Ohio as a temporary measure, designed to meet an emergency condition, but, as usual, tax spenders have found arguments for its continuance.

THERE IS NO GOOD REASON WHY OHIO'S SALES TAX SHOULD NOW BE ABOVE AN HONEST 2 PER CENT, NOR IS THERE ANY JUSTIFICATION FOR COLLECTING THE TAX ON TOP OF THE FEDERAL TAX.

What do you say, Governor Bricker?

Take Advantage of Courtesy

OBSERVATION reveals that some of the most impudent and arrogant persons who ignore traffic lights while passing through Mansfield are out-of-state motorists who presume on customary courtesy to an unwarranted extent.

There is an inclination in all states to treat tourists in a kindly way, assuming that they may not be familiar with local traffic regulations, but a red light at a street intersection means STOP, in whatever state you may be traveling and there is no good reason why an out-of-state car should be permitted to dash through intersections without paying any attention to traffic signals—as is quite regularly done in Mansfield, and probably in many other Ohio cities.

It is constantly urged that Ohio motorists who travel in other states acquaint themselves with traffic regulations in each of the states they visit, and drive accordingly.

Considering the frequency with which out-of-state cars are involved in Ohio accidents—many in this vicinity—it appears that visiting motorists need have their attention directed to Ohio traffic laws—even to the extent of imposing penalties in cases of deliberate violation of safety regulations.

Welcome and Unwelcome Sportsmen

HERE'S a story with a happy ending. It's about a grouchy farmer and a vicious dog, and is told by J. W. Munsell, who writes a column on "Fishing and Hunting." It appears that Mr. Munsell had been told by a number of sportsmen that a certain farmer in a region where hunting and fishing both were good wouldn't let anybody on his property and kept a savage dog to help enforce his rule.

Mr. Munsell decided he ought to look into the matter. He found the farmer hoeing potatoes, and the dog as dangerous looking as advertised. The investigator kept his natural anxiety well under control. He stopped about thirty feet away from the farmer, so the dog wouldn't think his master needed defending, and conversation began.

The farmer was pleasantly surprised at his visitor's courage and said so. They moved to the porch where the talk ranged freely over many matters. It developed that the farmer formerly had let people fish and hunt on his property. Some of them were all right. Others cut wire fences, broke down wooden ones, let stock out, shot sheep and hogs, and did so much damage that he had to stop it all. However, he offered his caller a written permit to hunt and fish on the farm, and they parted friends.

It's the old story of privileges being withdrawn because they were abused. A few selfish and destructive individuals can make trouble for large numbers of well-behaved folks. Courtesy pays for sportsmen as for others.

Education Still Important

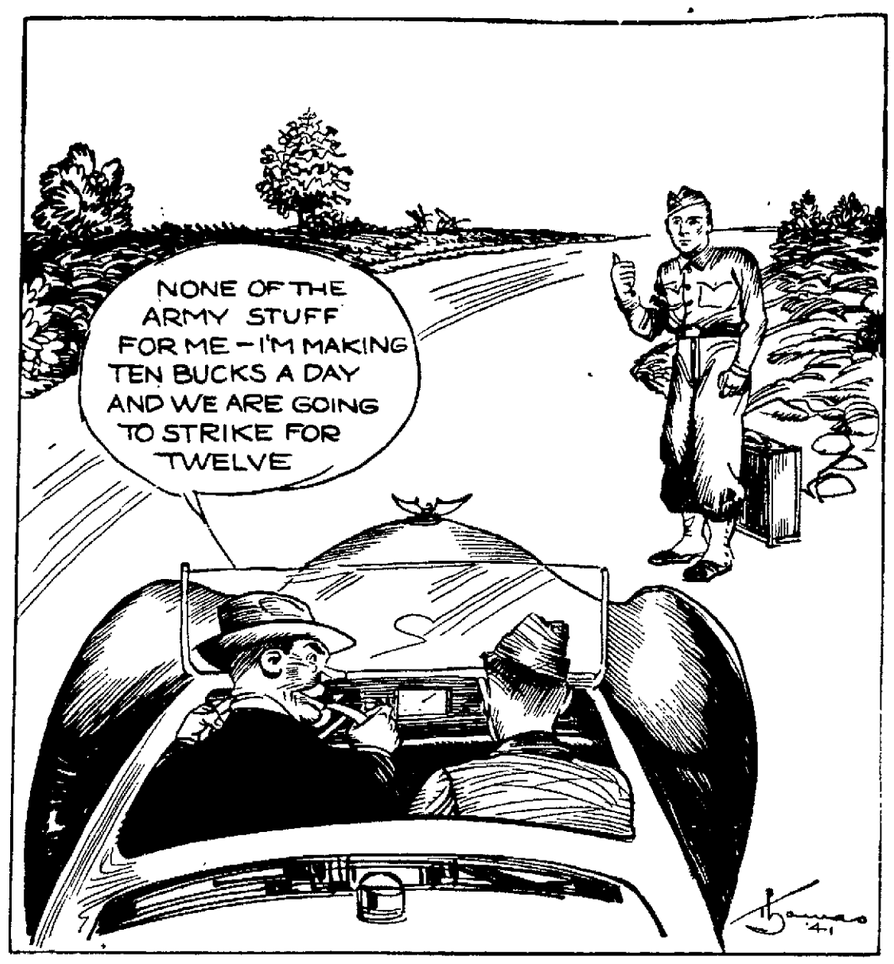
A COLLEGE PRESIDENT, speaking to an audience of new students, recognizes that their college tenure in a time like this is uncertain. But he urges them to "continue in their studies as earnestly as they can, and as long as it is possible."

It is good advice. And the government seems to be co-operating in this effort. Recent news from the Selective Service headquarters at Washington tells of directions issued to local boards to postpone the drafting of college students until they have finished the semesters or quarter-terms of study in which they are now engaged. It is specified, however, that students thus favored must be enrolled in good faith and be in good scholastic standing.

Being interested in losing money fast, Marshall Field III is to finance a new morning newspaper in Chicago—possibly an AM edition of PM.

Wherever you happen to be, if there is no Roosevelt there one of them will probably arrive within the next few minutes.

GIVING THE SOLDIER A LIFT



Consider More Pay for Soldiers

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Very shortly now, a million or more boys, their families, kinfolk and girl friends will cock their ears at a little room in the west wing of the Capitol, for there a subcommittee of the senate military affairs committee will hold hearings on whether soldiers' pay should be raised.

If you want to bet, bet that it will be—because the straws in the wind are blowing in that direction.

When Sen. Lister Hill, chairman of the subcommittee, whip of the Democratic side of the senate, and one of the chief administration spokesmen on military affairs, introduced the resolution which has brought about the hearing, he included in it that the investigation was to be held "with a view to" increasing army pay.

When the draft extension bill was passed, the pay increase amendment came out of the anti-administration ranks. There was a marked absence of debate on the floor opposing the increase of $10 a month for all men in service a year or more. When it came to a vote, party lines crumbled and the amendment went through.

The Question: How Much?

THERE already are two bills before the senate providing for the increase and the report of the committee probably will be based on one of these.

One, by Sen. Sheridan Downey, California Democrat, would increase the army pay $30 a month—but with the proviso that the increase would be paid the men monthly after their discharge from the service. Sen. Ed Johnson, Colorado Democrat, has a bill which would increase army pay 25 per cent (officers excepted).

Senator Hill makes no bones about his views. He says soldiers' pay is low and should be increased.

"The question," he says, "is how much, and that is the reason we want to hold hearings and gather information from officials of the war and navy departments, the marine corps and the coast guard."

Bonuses Possible.

ARMY pay now starts at $21 a month for privates with less than four months' training. After four months, unless a man has shown himself unfit or completely inefficient, his pay climbs to $30. This is known as "seventh grade" and if a private stays in that class for eight months more, he receives $40.

But this is only the pay scale for "buck privates." Privates first class, get $36; corporals, $54; sergeants, $60; staff sergeants, $72; first sergeants, $84; and master sergeants, $126. In each case, of course, there is $10 more for all men who have served more than a year. Add to that the bonuses, ranging from $3 to $30 a month for specialists (electricians, mechanics, radio operators, etc.) There also are bonuses for decorations and awards.

You Still Won't Get Rich.

MEN in the armed forces also get food, clothing, medical and dental attention without charge. There are other compensations, such as free entertainment, special rates for movies, low railroad fares.

All of this doesn't mean that the army can dispense with that ancient ditty, "You'll never get rich." At least, I haven't heard of any draftees planning to retire on their savings from army pay.

But if congress goes through, as some are convinced with another hike in army pay, the fighting game in the already best-paid force in the world is going to be getting itself into competition, from a remunerative standpoint, with some of our better known underpaid professions.

Dragging the Flag

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(I saw a photo the other day. There was a mine train in the picture, backing downgrade beyond the engineer's control. On either side of the track there were men. The men were stretching something across the track, directly in front of the speeding wheels. That something was—a large American flag. The men, members of a certain union, were trying to enforce a strike . . . "demanding their rights." As though someone had touched a button, another picture came back to me, over many years.)

I SHOULD have been in bed—but wasn't. Things were happening. Curious things. So, from my favorite hiding place behind the old sofa, I watched.

There was a poor man, in a shabby coat, sitting on one side of a battered table facing other men. The poor man was speaking. As he spoke, his voice rose . . . fell . . . boomed. His scarred hands clenched, reached out. Was he angry? Sad? I could not tell. Even the words he said did not make sense to my eight-year-old ears.

"They have a right . . . they have a right . . . ." he said. But who were "THEY" . . . and what was their "RIGHT"? And why were the other men frowning? It was years before I knew the answer—but those four words have lived in my heart ever since.

The poor man was my father. The others were local merchants. The unseen audience, for whom my father pleaded, were workers, demanding unionization. So, for the first time, a realization of Labor came into my life . . . Labor which, then, worked twelve hours a day for six full days per week without vacation and at a wage which many a modern share-cropper might despise.

"THEY HAVE A RIGHT" . . . To me, those words have always been a pledge. They should, I think, be a pledge to every American citizen. They are a symbol of all the things for which America stands. Labor has a right—and to far more than a mere "living wage." It has a right to that recognition and respect which preserves the dignity of human life. It has a right to take its place at any council table where human welfare is being discussed . . . a right to air its views even though those views be mistaken.

But "rights" are strange things. They're not automatic . . . nor guaranteed. We must merit and maintain them. They are respected only to the extent that we, ourselves, make them worthy of respect. The day we cheapen them the world will hold them cheap. We write our own price tags. Which brings me back to that picture.

THE MEN WHO DRAGGED THAT FLAG ACROSS THE TRACK DRAGGED MORE THAN A FLAG. THEY DEGRADED THE CAUSE OF LABOR EVERYWHERE — UNDID ITS PROGRESS — CONFIRMED EVERY CHARGE OF UNFITNESS AND UNFAIRNESS WHICH THEIR ENEMIES HAVE BROUGHT AGAINST THEM.

And this goes for every worker in these United States who is using his power to take unfair advantage during the gravest national emergency we have known.

"They have a right" — they have, indeed.

BUT IF THEY DRAG THAT RIGHT IN THE GUTTER, WHO SHALL HONOR IT?

(Copyright, 1941)

Some Inspiring Feats Performed By Armies Training In Louisiana

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WITH THE THIRD ARMY—The Third Army is the largest and one of the best of the new citizen armies.

Made up of regulars, national guardsmen, inductees and reservists from every part of the country, it is a true cross section of the U. S. A. and a very inspiring one. It is patriotic, high-spirited, fit and eager to learn.

Throughout the big Louisiana war games the men of the Third Army, in heat and downpour, over gruelling swamp and woodland, displayed a spirit of scrappy aggressiveness and tenacity that kept their enemy (Second Army) constantly on the defensive. From reconnaissance patrols to army corps every unit of the Third was full of fight and determination to win.

Some of the feats of this new army, still a fledgling force learning the arts of war, were remarkable. For example:

In the first two days of the first phase of the maneuvers the 43rd, 37th and 38th divisions of national guardsmen marched over 50 miles and then went immediately into combat.

This is an outstanding military performance and on a par with the best displayed by crack German infantry, which underwent training for seven years. It graphically demonstrates the superb physical fitness and esprit of these citizen soldiers.

Another example was the extraordinary feat of the 1st Cavalry Division fording the Sabine river at night with all its heavy motor and artillery equipment (400 vehicles) to pounce early in the morning on the unsuspecting west flank of the enemy and capture a large part of its gas supplies. To cross this treacherous stream the doughty division had to haul over 7-ton trucks and 155 caliber guns weighing 4,500 pounds.

The Third Army has all the elements of a great combat force in the finest American tradition. It isn't that yet, but it is well on the way. It still has a lot to learn, from buck private to commanding general.

But what distinguishes the men of the Third is their will to learn, their aggressiveness and pride as citizen soldiers.

Note—As is the case in the other citizen armies, chief deficiency of the Third Army is lack of small unit (platoon and company) training. This is primarily due to inexperienced non-commissioned and company officers.

"The Old Man."

PRINCIPAL credit for the excellence of the Third is due Lieut. General Walter Krueger, commander, and his crack staff of assistants.

Slender, of middle height and incisive, Krueger rose from the ranks and is a militant practitioner of the Stonewall Jackson dictum of "surprise, mystify and mislead the enemy." During the war games it was his troops who three times attempted the daring stroke of capturing the opposing commanding general and did succeed in "killing" his chief of staff.

Although very much a man of action and constantly on the go, Krueger also is a scholar. He speaks four languages, is an alert student of foreign military techniques and modern methods. When well over fifty he took a flying course at Brooks Field and travels almost entirely by plane. Krueger was long known in the army as one of its top organizers and executives; in the Louisiana war games he also demonstrated that he is a very able and forceful field general.

One of the best indications of his high caliber is the crack staff with which he has surrounded himself. It is without peer in the U. S. army and has some of the best technical brains of the army.

Chief among these younger aces is Colonel Dwight Eisenhower, chief of staff, who conceived and directed the strategy that routed the Second Army. Eisenhower has a steel-trap mind plus unusual physical vigor. To him the military profession is a science and he began watching and studying the German army five years ago.

Eisenhower's deputy chief of staff is another crack army brain-truster. He is Lieut. Colonel Al Gruenther, leading bridge ace of the army and a shining star of the general staff until Krueger wangled him for his staff. Both Eisenhower and Gruenther are destined for bigger things in the army. They are men to watch, with Major General R. C. Richardson, commander of Second Army's 8th Army Corps, and one of the most brilliant field generals of the service.

Note—Richardson, Eisenhower and Gruenther are of that rare military species, regular army officers who can think in terms of the civilian and the citizen soldier.

"Cajun" Soldier.

THE historic Arcadian ("Cajun") section of Louisiana in and about which the war games took place was a never ending source of interest to the thousands of citizen soldiers.

The local people were extremely friendly and hospitable and were as intrigued with the soldiers as they were with them. Practically all doors were open and the two weeks of maneuvers were a delightful experience to both groups. The towns in which the two armies operated hotly took sides and celebrated or despaired as the tide of war fluctuated.

But locally the real heroes were the "Cajun" soldiers. They were the pride and glory of the "Cajun" country and stories abounded about them. One regarded with great relish throughout the Third Army, which prides itself on its military discipline, was about a young "Cajun" recruit who failed to salute his colonel. The colonel stopped him and said, "How long have you been in the army?"

"Two months," was the pleasant answer, "and you?"

"Shavetails" and Generals.

GREATEST personnel problem of the new citizen army is second lieutenants and field generals.

Most of the former are too green to know what it is all about and the latter too old to learn. Being young, eager to learn and bright, most of the "shavetails" can be taught. Some of the generals will be replaced by younger and more adaptable officers.

Note—During a day of hot fighting in the maneuvers, one general commanding a division at the front calmly stretched out on two camp chairs in the shade near his tent and read a newspaper while enemy bombers made a dive attack on his headquarters. If they had been using live bombs the general and his headquarters would have been blasted to smithereens.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—James Melton's favorite story concerns the hillbilly who was making his first airplane flight across the country and who had just sold an original story to a movie company for an enormous sum.

The plane made a stop, and a fuel truck rushed up, filled the plane's tanks with gas, and rolled off again. The plane took off and a couple of hours later it came down again, to be met by a fuel truck that dashed up as soon as the plane had settled on the runway. This happened several times during the day, and each time a fuel truck met the plane with gas.

Finally, a passenger turned to the hillbilly and observed, "We're making terrifice time, aren't we."

"Yeah," agreed the genius, "and that fuel truck ain't doing bad either."

JIM TULLY, the ex-road kid, his mop of bristly red hair now grey, is in town with the manuscript of his new book—an autobiography. . . . Tommy Dorsey has opened an extensive suite of offices over The Hurricane, a nightclub on Broadway. . . . That new Sammy Kaye record, "Minka," is taken from an old Cossack love song. . . . Its strains were first utilized in 1925 by the late George Gershwin as "Don't Forget Me, Don't Forget Me."... There may be a war in progress, but that isn't barring foreign ships from the piers of New York's harbor. . . . IT'S A lengthening parade of familiar names that is winding along Broadway's stage alleys these days. . . . Big, tall, Sinclair Lewis is one of them. . . . "Red," as his friends know him, has paused work on his novel to direct a play. . . . He lives at an apartment in 49th street. "Red" just can't seem to throw off the acting bug, and for the life of me I can't see why a Nobel prize winner would want to become an actor. Even his last novel was about the theater. The theater undoubtedly has its charm, but it will not be as a thespian or even as a director that the "Main Street" man is remembered.

A Farmer's Diary

Fable for Critics

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A MAN whose wife, after reading my column, decided they ought to move out on a farm, and would give him no peace until they did it, accused me the other day of being a farm "propagandist." So I went to the dictionary and looked up 'propaganda.' It comes from the Latin verb, propagare, meaning to propagate, to cause to spread or extend, e. g. to propagate light. All in all, quite a decent word—and right now, stylish.

One of the big chains of American newspapers has for its emblem a lighthouse tower and for its motto, "Give the people light and they will find their own way." Propaganda isn't necessarily a bad thing—without it we'd have no missionaries.

Which makes me remember noticing that Reader's Digest, that American connoiseur and culler of current writings, is soon to put out a Portuguese edition. Already it is printed in Spanish and well received by most of the Spanish-speaking countries of South America. But Portuguese, it seems, will be read by Brazilians—the farmers who grow our coffee can know us better. That seems to me like worthwhile propaganda to say the least.

Another friendly critic claims that I repeat the "peace and contentment theme" too often.

Well, the farm is the serenest, most peaceful place to live, in these troubled times. At least on days when a lightning bolt doesn't blitzkrieg down and strike the barn, or hail doesn't strip our cornfield, or the mortgage isn't foreclosed. These things happen, to be sure, but only once or twice in the average lifetime. We farmers expect storms and try to be ready for them. Sometimes we're afraid, but always, afterward, the air is clearer. There's another day, another try, another crop. By keeping steadily at it, through the years, we forge ahead—how far, we ourselves cannot always realize, for we are so small and the years go by so fast. The past is gone, the future is still in the haze. We have only now.

Just now the farm is beautiful with autumn coloring, and although the wind is high, the corncrib is full and the cellar is stocked for winter. Shall we sit down and worry, then, because storm warnings are out and winter is on the way?

Shall we hole ourselves in and moan because war warnings are out and the world writhes in pain and terror? Or shall we tighten our belts and whistle, even while we hurry to bolt the doors and close the windows—knowing in our hearts that the old farmhouse is founded upon a Rock and that we are determined to keep it there?

Pastor Collects Over 2,000 Epitaphs That Joke At Death

(By Associated Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Dr. Robert H. McCaslin collects men's jests with death.

Dr. McCaslin, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church here, has several notebooks filled with about 2,0000 unusual epitaphs from all over the world.

The strange hobby started when he was walking through a village churchyard in Middle Tennessee years ago. The villager with him pointed to four tombstones in a row, and said:

"I've had four wives to die. Now I'm living with my fifth."

On each of the four stones was the same verse:

"Another link is broken in the happy band,
"But a chain is forming in a better land."

Since that incident, Dr. McCaslin has found hundreds of interesting "last words" in many places, and others have been sent him.

"One, written by a sardonic New Jersey widow for her husband, reads:

"Meant Well, Tried a Little, Failed Much."

A New England man's children told his woeful tale in poetic vein:

"Ma loved Pa, Pa loved women
"Ma caught Pa with two in swimmin'.
"Here lies Pa"

The code of the Old West is portrayed in the single line on a rough, natural rock gravestone found in Cripple Creek, Colo.:

"He called Bill Smith a liar."

A 19th century lass bared her sorrows to the world in the inscription:

"The wedding day decided was,
"The wedding wine provided.
"But ere the day has come along
"He'd drunk it up, and die did.
"Ah, Sydney! Sydney"

A New York wag's epitaph says only:

"Guess Who."

While over a London cook in writtten:

'Peas to his hashes."

The one Dr. Caslin likes best, though, isn't comical at all. It's a sentimental sentence from a stone in Old Grayfriar's Churchyard at Edinburgh, Scotland:

"Think what a wife should be —she was that."

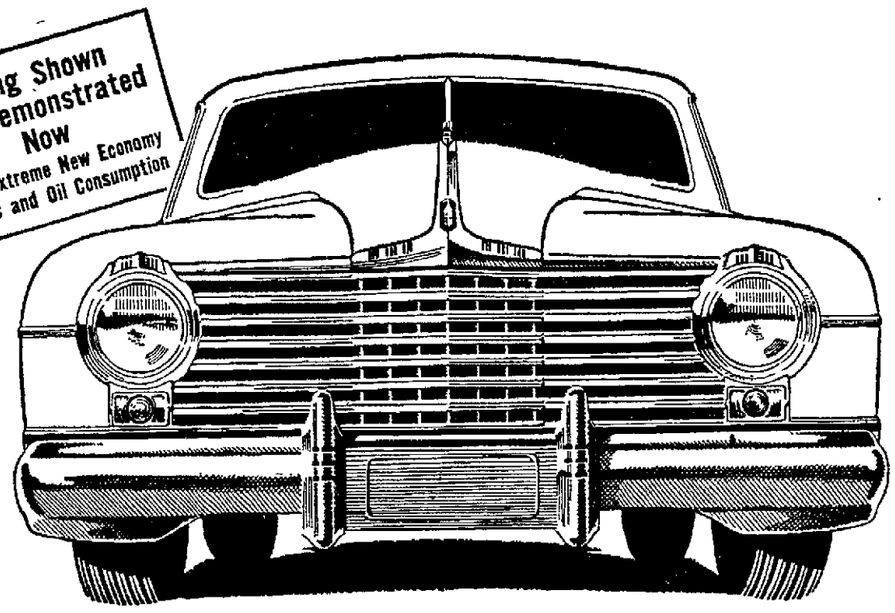
There Can Be No Curtailment of Dodge Quality ... No Substitute for Dodge Dependability

Being Shown and Demonstrated Now
With Extreme New Economy in Gas and Oil Consumption



TUNE IN MAJOR BOWES, C. B. S., THURSDAYS, 9 TO 10 P. M., E. S. T.

The New and the Finest Dodge

EVERY MAN OR WOMAN who buys one of these new Dodges will get for his money the very finest car that Dodge has ever turned out. He will get it, of course, from a smaller total production, because the Government of the United States has first call upon Dodge factories and men. But, we repeat, every civilian buyer of Dodge motorcars will receive for his investment all of the traditional Dodge quality at higher levels of endurance, performance and economy than Dodge has ever supplied them before.

Power-Flow Engine—For All-Fluid Drive

He will get, literally, the climax value of twenty-seven years of fine car engineering. He will get the phenomenal success of Dodge All-Fluid Drive. He will get the new Power-Flow Engine, designed and adapted as the more powerful complement to the fluid smoothness of Dodge All-Fluid Drive. He will get a motorcar of lifetime lasting qualities, in which riding and driving have become almost the same thing—except that the driver gets the added joy of command.

Is This Asking Too Much?

People by the hundreds who have driven the new Dodge say almost the same thing. They say they could not, and would not, go back to the old way of driving. It is not asking too much, we believe, that you investigate these revolutionary Dodge qualities.

You should experience the ebb and flow of Dodge power, at any speed, in any traffic, with or without shifting gears as you may wish. You should measure its new economy against the old, and realize that Dodge, all by itself, has turned the corner into a new day of motorcar performance, long life, and Dependability.

Dependability—Forever the Watchword

It is unquestionably true that fewer cars will be built this coming year, according to your own defense requirements. But, above all, it is true that there can never occur any curtailment of Dodge motorcar quality—and no substitute, ever, for Dodge Dependability.

A new Dodge car is a basic investment for the years.

RED DEFENDERS ROUT GERMANS AT LENINGRAD

Russians Reported Seizing Offensive From Nazis In Heavy Drive.

a sharp attack across the Neva river near Schlisselburg.

Moscow reports, presumably detailing the same action, said that five German regiments, units of the 291st infantry division, had been routed. The force was estimated to number about 15,000 men.

London reports indicated that the Russian forces cut through the German spearhead which had interfered with or severed communications between Leningrad and Moscow and had formed a juncture with the substantial force of Soviet troops operating south of Leningrad in the area just east of Novgorod.

Another Russian report said that around Staraya Russa the Russians have recaptured four villages and an important hill.

There were no German reports on developments on the Leningrad front. Berlin, however, claimed that big new successes are building up in the Ukraine.

A German wedge, it was indicated, is being pushed northeast from Poltava toward Kharkov, 80 miles away, and now is nearing the fringe of the Donets industrial area. A Finnish report claimed that another Nazi spearhead is approaching Rostov, having swept around the shores of the Sea of Azov. Finnish reports on the Ukraine front have tended recently to present an exaggerated or over-optimistic picture of Nazi gains and frequently have been denied by Berlin.

RAF Raiders Bomb Stuttgart, Calais.

LONDON —(UNS)— Night RAF bombing raids on Stuggart and other centers in southwestern Germany and along the docks at Calais, Boulogne and Ostend were announced by the air ministry today.

The new British bombing assaults followed a previous series of attacks on Hamburg, Stettin and Frankfort and other areas of northern and western Germany.

They also served as a reply to the recent sharp German bombing assault on two northeastern British towns which resulted in heavy casualties and severe damage.

BERLIN—(UNS)—The high command announced today that German planes during the night successfully raided the English southeast coast port of Dover, causing a number of fires

The Luftwaffe also was reported to have raided several air ports in southeastern and central England, destroying three planes on the ground and causing some fires.

U. S., Great Britain to Meet Red Requests.

MOSCOW —(AP)— Virtually every Soviet supply request is to be filled by the United States and Great Britain in exchange for Russian raw materials under a swiftly reached agreement of the Moscow war needs conference

Tri-power conferees wound up their business and closed the session last night, accomplishing in three days what they had expected to require five, to speed the strengthening of the U. S. S. R. for the struggle against Germany

W. Averell Harriman, chairman of the United States delegation spoke for both himself and Lord Beaverbrook head of the British mission, in a statement

"It was decided at the conference to place at the disposal of the Soviet government practically every requirement for which Soviet military and civilian authorities asked. The Soviet government supplies Great Britain and the United States large quantities of raw materials required in those countries.

Receipts of ample Russian raw materials was acknowledged in British-American statement and it said Premier Joseph Stalin had expressed his thanks to the United States and Britain for "bountiful supplies of raw materials, machine tools and munitions of war."

Call Three-Power Meeting 'Failure.'

BERLIN —(AP)— Authorized German sources said today that the Moscow three-power meeting was a failure.

They said the final speeches of Russian Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff and W. Averell Harriman, chief of the United States delegation, showed discrepancies in viewpoint between the Soviet Union and the western powers.

Call Truce for Prisoner Exchange.

A BRITISH PORT—(AP)—Britain and Germany will take time out from their war in and across the English channel this week-end to assure safe passage for 3,000 wounded prisoners of war—half of the number British, half German—who hadn't expected to see home before the end of hostilities.

Two British hospital ships, each transporting 1,500 men, will try to make the crossings by daylight but if tides prevent landing in time the ports will be lighted and the ships will carry lights—the first exceptions in the blackout since the war began.

The agreement provides for fighter planes, bombers and submarines to withdraw from the scene.

Invites Industry To Conference on Mansfield 'Crisis'

Following these three discussions, there will be a joint meeting at 7:30 p. m of all groups in the offices of the Ohio State employment service at 50 North Diamond street.

Handley did not know today just what procedure would be used at the meeting or what subjects would be discussed, but he did say that the meetings would be in an effort to adopt the so-called "Dayton plan"

Under the plan, he continued joint efforts are made to combine production facilities to obtain defense orders; build a new plant for defense work; shift laborers to points where they are needed; educate laborers to defense jobs; and obtain federal aid in equipping plants to handle defense work.

Invitations went to the following Mansfield area industries: The Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing company, Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, Dominion Electric company, Martin Steel company, Ohio Brass company, Humphryes Manufacturing company, Tappan Stove company, Barnes Manufacturing company, Ideal Electric company, Mansfield Metal Vault company, Hartman Electric company, Fate Root Heath company of Plymouth, Hughes Keenan company, Shelby Spring Hinge company, Shelby Cycle company, Shelby Metal Products company, Hoff Manufacturing company, Perfection Bed Spring company, Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, Farm Tool, Inc., Balyeat Mattress company, Superior Brass company, Perfect Rubber company, Ohio Textile company, North American Knitting company., and the Richland Auto Parts company.

Ship construction on the gulf coast was hampered today by two walkouts, one of which threatened to spread among CIO craftsmen all over Alabama

Steve Martin, business agent of the industrial union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO), announced that members of the union at Mobile had voted to call an official strike and start picketing two yards of the Alabama Dry Dock and Shipbuilding company there unless demands were met He said 2,500 men had walked off by last night.

Further, Martin said, CIO headquarters at Birmingham had agreed to call out 162,000 affiliated members throughout Alabama if Gov. Frank M. Dixon should attempt to send state guards to Mobile The union spokesman said the walkout was in protest to alleged violation of the union's contract with the company and because of the firm's refusal to raise wages "when the time came to raise wages"

Several hundred AFL welders remained away from work yesterday at the Ingalls Shipbuilding plant at Pascagoula, Miss, reportedly in a disagreement over wage scales.

Settlement yesterday of a dispute at the Briggs body plant at Detroit made it possible today for the Chrysler corporation to reopen its Plymouth division, which depends upon Briggs for bodies. The strike was ended in an unusual manner -with the approval of the CIO Auto Workers union, 15 leaers of the strike were discharged The dispute involved the seniority of workmen.

NEW LIBRARIAN

MILLERSBURG—Miss Pauline Guscott of the Dayton Public library has been employed as librarian for the Holmes County Public library and will assume her duties here Nov. 1, according to announcement made today by the Rev D M Haynes president of the board of trustees

Miss Guscott will succeed Miss Helen Hastings, who recently resigned to accept the position of county librarian for Stark county.

group to have the regulation enforced.

Mansfield police have not taken part in the enforcement of the state department's order as yet but it was believed that state liquor agents might request police aid while making a check of local clubs and lodges.

Taylor's order was issued after the holders of regular liquor licenses in hotels, taverns and restaurants complained that the lodges were abusing their privileges by selling liquor to non-members, selling liquor by packages and selling high-powered drinks on Sundays.

Meanwhile, the federal government lent the state department a helping hand by beginning collection of a $50 annual use tax on coin-operated slot machines, outlawed in Ohio, and pinball machines, barred in most parts of the state.

The government's assumption that pinball machines are gambling devices thus answers quickly a question which has bothered Ohio courts for a number of years.

It was pointed out by federal authorities that although the liability for the gambling device tax is placed against the establishment in which such a machine appears, in most cases the machines are owned by outside operators.

publics of South America and toward this nation.

See Congress Ready to Go Beyond Request.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Suggestions that congress may be willing to go beyond President Roosevelt's expected recommendations for revision of the neutrality act came today from two senators who often differ widely on domestic policy—Hill (D-Ala) and Bridges (R., N.H.)

While no legislator professed to know precisely what Mr Roosevelt would recommend, there have been reports that he might confine himself to a request for authority to arm American merchant ships.

Hill, the Democratic whip, told reporters that "if it should be that Mr. Roosevelt recommends only the arming of merchant ships I should not be at all surprised if a broadening amendment were offered from the senate floor to eliminate the prohibitions on the movements of our ships. And I think the votes would be there to approve it both in the senate and the house."

Bridges likewise thought that the senate would broaden the legislation to include the end of shipping restrictions. He expressed doubt, however, that the house would agree to scrapping the ship provisions, even though Democratic leaders in that chamber have claimed enough votes for complete repeal of the whole law weeks ago by the Wall Street Journal. That publication said Mansfield's industries didn't have "much enthusiasm" for defense contracts. It brought a prompt denial from the heads of several of the city's larger plants and almost immediately it was revealed that a number of them had increased their efforts to get government orders to make up for the curtailment of domestic production.

Westinghouse officials were still silent today on the probable effect the government's order slashing the refrigerator output 43.2 per cent will have on employment at the plant.

Already 700 Westinghouse workers have been laid off because necessary materials are not available. and company officials said they were not in a position to predict with any accuracy what will happen when the order goes into effect. Although announcement of the reduction came from Washington two days ago, Westinghouse representatives said they had not been informed when the order will be enforced

The Prague radio, heard in London, estimated 126 Czechs had been executed and said 228 others had been turned over to the Nazi Gestapo (secret police) for further investigation. So far, only five brought to trial have been acquitted

Authorized quarters in Berlin said the death sentence had not yet been carried out on Premier General Alois Elias of Bohemia-Moravia, convicted by a German peoples' court of "preparing for high treason and abetting the enemy."

Coincident with these manifestations of bitter underground revolt spreading from Norway to the Balkans, Premier Mussolini heard official reports that the situation now was "satisfactory" in Italian-occupied parts of former Yugoslavia, where Fascist troops recently arrived to crush outbreaks by Serb guerrilla bands.

At the same time, Il duce sought to counter reports of seething animosity between Italians and their Nazi allies by giving the signal for pro-German demonstrations throughout Italy.

With Mussolini in attendance, Italian Minister of Culture Alessandro Pavolini told a meeting of the Italo-German association in Rome that reports of friction between Italians and Germans were "Anglo-American lies"

The Bruesseler (Brussels) Zeitung said two Frenchmen, Henri Leclercq and Germain Lepoivre, had been executed following their conviction by a German military court on charges of espionage.

Paul Colette, 21-year-old Frenchman whose attempt to assassinate collaborationist Pierre Laval Aug. 28 was followed by widespread sabotage and other acts of violence in German-occupied France, was condemned to death.

Colette was convicted at a secret trial yesterday before a special French anti-treason court in Paris. Laval, former vice premier in the Petain government, and an associate, Marcel Deat, were wounded by Colette's gunfire, but now are convalescing.

accruing from net profit and $8,118,594 from the gallonage mark-up.

Rapidly increasing consumption brought on greater enforcement problems, Taylor reported. In 1939-40, the liquor board heard 48 per cent of all violation cases reported in the past six years. Licenses were revoked in 26 per cent of the cases heard in 1940 as compared with 53 per cent for the high year of 1936.

Under the direction of the board, 2,313 arrests were made last year for liquor violations and in these cases fines totaling $288,464 were levied and jail sentences adding up to 139,325 days were imposed. Of the 937 citations in 1940, the board suspended 573 permits and revoked 284.

A summary of the cases disclosed that worst violators of the law were not the sellers of hard whisky, but holders for D-1 permits, who may sell 3.2 beer at retail for consumption on their premises, and D-2 permits, who may sell beer, wine and mixed drinks under the same conditions.

One-third of all violations heard were on charges of Sunday sales while another third involved permit holders who dispensed whisky but held only beer and wine licenses.

Financial Growth of United States Reflected In Mercantile History.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., mercantile agency which records the ups and downs of business men in its world-wide rating service, celebrates its 100th anniversary this year.

Born Aug. 1, 1841, as The Mercantile Agency, the company was succeeded by R. G. Dun & Co. in 1859, and Dun and Bradstreet in 1933 when it merged with the agency founded by John M. Bradstreet, Cincinnati lawyer, in 1849.

A man named Lewis Tappen founded the company. His original equipment, according to the musty records, was "a phenomenal momory and a large file of credit data." Today Dun & Bradstreet maintains offices in 168 cities of the United States and Canada and 50 in foreign cities, has on its payroll 30,000 resident reporters and thousands of others on its regular staff in the various offices.

The company publishes the Dun Reference Book, containing more than 2,000,000 ratings which change on an average of 5,000 daily. Other services include specialized industrial reports covering 10 divisions of trade, a municipal service on civic units which issue securities to the public, and a research and statistical division to serve industry with special surveys on business conditions.

In its work of credit rating, the firm keeps its fingers on the pulse of the nation's business. It publishes vast amounts of statistical information in addition to a monthly magazine, Dun's Review. The agency is particularly known for its weekly reports on business failures, retail and wholesale trade reviews, bank clearing reports, and food index, and for its monthly building statistics.

Dun & Bradstreet compiles the United Press daily commodity index from prices furnished by the United Press. This index, composed of 30 basic commodities weighed in ratio to their importance and based on the period 1930-32 taken as 100, is widely used by newspapers and business men to keep a record of the ups and downs of commodity prices.

Among its foreign services is one on Latin American business. The company keeps on file 300,000 reports on Central and South America and West Indies and publishes the Latin American Index, a directory of 90,000 manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and agents in 29 Spanish and Portuguese speaking markets.

Just now the company is doing large amounts of work for the government as a public service. It has lent its president, Arthur D. Whiteside, to the government as a fulltime worker and from time to time is called upon to furnish myriad data to government departments, especially in connection with the defense program.

Problem Of The Laugh Solved By Movie Director

HOLLYWOOD — (NS) — The technical problem of the laugh has been solved by Columbia's director Alexander Hall.

He pointed out "laughs are funny things" and then explained:

"Some time ago I directed a comedy which rippled with bright dialogue. The audience laughed so loud and long during several sequences and ensuing dialogue was lost. Portions of the story went with the missing dialogue.

"That taugh me a lesson. A short time later, I made a similar picture. This time the laughs were spaced carefully. Silent scenes were inserted to point the biggest punch lines. No part of the story was to be lost through laughter.

"Well, those scenes became doubly silent when the audience refused to laugh as expected."

Forced to seek another solution, Hall developed the art of conveying the plot visually, so that "if you can't hear the story because the fellow in the next seat is killing himself with raucous laughter, you can still see it."

For 1942—a Beautiful New FORD "6" OR "8"

IN THESE UNUSUAL TIMES we invite you to inspect an unusual new car—new in its beauty, its comfort, its choice of two fine 90 horsepower engines, 6 cylinders or 8.

See it and you sense at once that here is new style that will stay good for years. On a lower, wider chassis, we have designed new long, low, wide and modern lines.

Interior treatment is entirely fresh, distinctive, pleasing. The beauty of this Ford will more than hold its own in any company.

Inside, the car is big—wide across the seats, generous in knee-room, leg-room, elbow-room.

On the road this year you find the "new Ford ride": still further advanced in its softness, quietness, steadiness and all-round comfort.

At the wheel, you will find driving easier than ever. Steering, gear-shifting, action of the big and sure hydraulic brakes have all been made smoother and easier.

In quality, the car is sound to the last detail. Defense requirements have all been met without a single reduction in the basic and lasting goodness of the Ford mechanically. Some new materials have replaced old ones, usually at a greater cost to us, but in every case the new is equal to or better than the old.

If your family needs a new car, go see and drive this Ford. For what it is today and for what it will be through the years ahead, we believe that you will find in it more and better transportation for your money than you have ever found before.

Try Aunt Jenny's Lemon Coconut Spice Cake made the Spry FULL FLAVOR way

Boy, oh boy, what FLAVOR —and purer Spry lets you get the FULL deliciousness

says Aunt Jenny

Lemon Coconut Spice Cake

"Three favorite flavors an' you want to get the FULL rich taste of all three! So don't risk ordinary shortenin's that may dull flavor. Be sure to use Spry. It's a flavor saver."

½ cup Spry
¾ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1½ cups sugar
2 whole eggs and 1 egg yolk
2½ teaspoons baking powder
2¼ cups sifted flour
½ cup milk
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon nutmeg

Blend Spry, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream well. Add eggs, singly, beating well after each addition.

Sift baking powder with flour 3 times. Add flour to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, mixing after each addition until smooth. Put ⅔ of batter in two Sprycoated 8-inch layer pans. Add spices to remaining ⅓ of batter and put in another Sprycoated 8-inch layer pan. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

Spread Lemon Coconut Filling between layers (placing spice layer in middle) and cover top with Double Boiler Frosting.

Double Boiler Frosting

1 egg white, unbeaten
⅔ cup sugar
½ teaspoon light corn syrup
½ teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons cold water

Put egg white, sugar, water and corn syrup in top of double boiler and mix thoroughly. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat constantly with rotary egg beater until mixture will hold a peak (about 7 minutes). Remove from fire. Add vanilla and beat until cool and thick enough to spread.

Lemon Coconut Filling

⅔ cup sugar
Dash of salt
2 teaspoons cornstarch
⅓ cup boiling water
Juice of ½ lemon
Grated rind of ½ lemon
2 cups coconut

Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch well. Add boiling water and boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Add lemon juice, rind and coconut and blend. Cool. Spread between cake layers. Makes enough filling to spread between three 8-inch layers.

Notice that Spry cakes are lighter —so tender and velvety. Yet Spry costs just about half what expensive cake shortening does. Do all your baking and frying with Spry!

CROCHETED MEDALLION PATTERN 2817

Here's your opportunity to own a lovely heirloom cloth, a spread or scarf at little cost and with little effort—just crochet these easy medallions and join them. Pattern 2817 contains directions for making medallion, illustrations of it and of stitches; materials required; photograph of medallion.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

By MARIAN MARTIN.

When the latest silhouette and a practical home style are combined—as in Pattern 9874—the result is a three-star fashion. Marian Martin chooses your two favorite details, the V-neckline, the buttoning down the front and combines it with this season's success story—the full skirted dirndl in tiered effect. Fullness is gathered into two horizontal low-placed seams, the first one coming at the hip, which leaves your waistline smooth. A tie belt makes you slimmer still. The Sew Chart gives clear, easy-to-follow details.

Pattern 9874 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 4¼ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send Fifteen Cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Miss Whitlock took from my father's hand the letter which Marion had written to Ronald, and scrutinized the envelope carefully.

"I am sure this is the same handwriting that was on the envelope Mrs. Underwood received this morning," she said, "and the envelopes are of the same variety of stationery."

She handed it back to my father, and he put it away without comment. But his face was unusually grave when he looked up from his briefcase.

"This is of the utmost importance," he said. "How soon will it be safe to rouse Mrs. Underwood, and—how soon can you do it?"

"I can do it at any time," she said, "but it will require rather drastic measures. They will be safe enough, as far as any danger of death is concerned, but I much prefer to have her sleep until the sedative wears off, and she awakens herself. But I could safely start to arouse her in about two hours and a half."

My father looked undecided for a second, then he nodded his acquiescence.

"That will have to do," he said. "And in the meantime, if you will take care of Mrs. Underwood, I will talk to her husband."

The nurse turned to the door, then faced us again.

A Harried Man.

"I think I ought to tell you first," she said, "that Mr. Underwood has eaten nothing since we came in this morning at four o'clock. How long before that he went without food, I do not know, but I am inclined to think he has not eaten for twelve hours or possibly more."

"Then," my father decided instantly, "do not call him yet. Prepare a tray with coffee, strong orange juice, or tomato juice, chilled, and some one dish which usually appeals to him."

He stopped and smiled at her. "You'll pardon an old man telling a trained nurse her business," he said.

"I'm very glad to have you," she said. "And I'll promise not to overload the tray. But—cannot I get you and Mrs. Graham something also?"

He shook his head emphatically. "My daughter and I breakfasted famously at the hotel," he said. "She insisted upon that. So we shall wish nothing—"

He paused and looked obliquely at me, and with a comprehending smile, I finished his sentence for him.

"Except coffee." I said. "Better make a large pot, Miss Whitlock."

"I already had determined that," she said. "You want this all ready to bring in before I call him."

"Yes, if you can keep it hot" he said. "Otherwise, my daughter and I can get it."

"That easy," she said, and wheeled a table in front of me on which stood a number of electrical appliances. She attached one, a warming contrivance with water beneath it, to a socket in the floor and picking up the coffee pot, started out of the room with it.

"I'll be back here with everything as soon as the coffee percolates," she said, and hurried out.

A Letter from Marion?

"Efficiency, thy name is Whitlock!" my father said, and I wished the nurse could have heard the sincere approbation in his voice.

I could not keep a terrified inquiry back any longer.

"Do you suppose Marion asked her mother to come to that restaurant?" I asked.

"How can we tell?" my father countered reasonably. "We do not even know that the letter inside was in Marion's handwriting. She may have been forced to address the envelope, for all we know, and have been in ignorance of the contents of the letter inside. The only thing of which we can be reasonably sure is that somewhere inside that envelope was a request or command powerful enough to fetch Lillian in disguise to that foreign restaurant, to keep her there all night, and to surround that trip with secrecy which even included her husband."

I had no heart to make any reply, but sat in miserable silence which my father did not break, and which ended only when Miss Whitlock came back with a large breakfast tray.

Scared To Speak Up In Class

By GARRY MYERS, Ph.D.

Often have I said that in the average classroom, especially at the junior and senior high school level, children are handicapped by needless fears when they attempt to speak. No doubt the ability of the average youth to think and speak in class could be doubled, if teachers understood how the youth feels and found ways to make him feel at ease.

In earlier columns I quoted from college and high school students on "how they feel on their feet." Similar testimonies in various parts of the U. S. from students down to the fourth grade show that they had stage fright when they tried to speak in an assembly hall. However, a pupil readily rises from his seat and gives his experiences once he is assured he won't be made fun of. If this can be done in groups of from 250 to 2500, why could it not be done easily in the classroom?

Why should not the teacher aim to cultivate such a classroom atmosphere that no child or youth will feel fear of being laughed at by his classmates as he tries to speak? One teacher out of a thousand does get such a moral and mentally healthy atmosphere and this teacher first works on himself or herself so as to treat each child as a sacred personality, and never indulges in ridicule or sarcasm at his expense.

Students' Statements.

Here are some individual statements by eighth grade pupils. From their reactions it is obvious that there are many symptoms from this type of fear.

I stutter, lose my voice and begin pulling my hair. I feel all scared. I feel weak all over, and wiggle my toes. I don't know what to do with my hands. I have to swallow hard because there is a big lump in my throat. I feel empty and my stomach aches. I feel sick at my stomach. Others said that their mouth and throat got dry; they twisted their hands, which were moist, their face felt hot, and got red; they trembled all over. Still more claimed that their heart throbbed faster and everything looked blurred. Some acknowledged a feeling that every one was looking at them. When they looked up while reading they lost the place. The longer they stood up the worse they felt. The list is long and the reactions many.

Among the words of advice I give students who wish to reduce their fears are these: Keep working on yourself. Don't be ashamed of these fears, since everybody has some of them. Never give up. Don't try to say too much at first.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SELECT THE LARGER

In determining your preference between doubling the opponent's bid and going ahead to bid a game which you think your side can make, you have several things to weigh against each other. Reduced to the simplest essentials, the problem is which will produce the larger number of points. If you are vulnerable and they are not, a game is to be preferred to a set of any number of tricks less than four. If they are vulnerable and you are not, a set of two tricks is more valuable. If neither side is vulnerable, or if both are, a set of three tricks is preferable to game, but game is preferable to a set of two tricks.

	♠ Q J 9 6 2 ♥ A K 9 ♦ Q 2 ♣ 10 6 5
♠ A 8 7 4 3 ♥ J 10 8 5 ♦ 3 2 ♣ 10 ♣ 4	N. W. E. S.	♠ K 10 5 ♥ 7 6 ♦ K J 9 8 7 3 ♣ A 9
	♠ None ♥ Q 4 ♦ A 6 5 4 ♣ K Q J 8 7 3 2

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	3 ♣
3 ♥	Dbl	3 ♠	4 ♣
4 ♠	(?)

Spades it was beaten three tricks for a score of 300 for North and South. Three tricks were taken in trumps, plus two in hearts and one in diamonds. West getting the rest.

At another table, North decided that his side ought to be able to make a game in clubs which, with the side vulnerable, would be worth 100 points more in duplicate. In fact, the game producing rubber would be preferable in rubber bridge also to a two-trick doubled set of non-vulnerable opponents. This North reckoned that South had at least seven playing tricks for his overcall of clubs at the range of three. He reckoned his partner as blank in spades, from the opponents' bidding, expected no losers in hearts, and figured that either there would be no losers in clubs or else only one in diamonds.

He was right. West made the meanest lead against the 5-Clubs, his trump to the A, and East returned his other trump. After that, however, South lost only one diamond, as he parked one on a heart and ruffed one.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ K J 10 6 4 ♥ K J 5 3 ♦ K 6 4 2 ♣ None
♠ 5 2 ♥ A 8 4 ♦ 10 8 5 ♣ Q 8 5 3 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ A Q ♥ Q 10 9 7 2 ♦ A 9 7 3 ♣ K 6
	♠ 9 8 7 3 ♥ 6 ♦ Q J ♣ A J 10 9 7 4

(Dealer West. Both sides vulnerable.)

If East bid 1-Heart, West 1-No Trump, North doubles, East redoubles, South bids 2-Spades and West passes, what should North do?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, October 3.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE.

On this day the accent seems to be placed on domestic, social and romantic affairs which seem to rise to high levels of happiness and accomplishments. Courtship, marriage and births dominate the domestic life with much joy and festivity. These may demand lavish expenditure, but some measure of thrift seems to be desirable, lest there be subsequent regrets or anxieties. Also there are hints of deception and fraud inspired by this prodigality.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a happy and gratifying year with many desirable objectives to be attained by romantic adventure or domestic felicity. There may be celebrations of weddings and births but stem excessive outlay.

A child born on this day should be kindly, gracious and sympathetic as well as compassionate and hospitable. It should enjoy a happy life.

Sweetbreads As You'll Like 'Em

By BETSY NEWMAN.

Some folk have a prejudice against sweetbreads. Others find them very delicious and serve them frequently. I am giving you a recipe for eggs and sweetbreads, which may be to your liking.

Today's Menu.

Scrambled Eggs and Sweetbreads
Riced Potatoes, Stewed Tomatoes
Cabbage and Green Pepper Salad
Cranberry Mousse Wafers
Coffee.

Scrambled Eggs and Sweetbreads

Four eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup milk, 1 sweetbread.

Parboil and dice sweetbread by putting in a kettle of boiling water to which salt and vinegar have been added in the portion of 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice to 1 quart water. Cook gently at simmering point for 20 minutes, then drain, cover with cold water and let stand until cold enough to handle. Remove membrane and tubes and dice. Beat eggs lightly, add salt and pepper, milk and diced sweetbread. Put butter in frying pan, and when melted pour in eggs and sweetbread mixture. Cook until creamy, stirring and folding from bottom of pan. Serve very hot.

Cranberry Mousse.

Two and one-half cups raw cranberries, 1¾ cups cold water, 1½ cups sugar, 1 cup whipping cream or 1 cup evaporated milk, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, ½ cup orange juice.

Measure cranberries after sorting. Wash cranberries, add cold water and cook slowly until soft, about 15 minutes, then press through a potato ricer. There should be 1¼ cups of pulp. Add sugar and cook 10 minutes. There should be 1¾ cups of jelly. Cool, then chill in refrigerator. Chill milk or cream and whip until stiff; add lemon and orange juice and continue whipping until mass is very stiff. Cut and fold in cold cranberry pulp lightly but thoroughly. Pour into freezing unit of refrigerator and freeze for from 3 to 8 hours. Serves 6.

MAKE BIG DRAW ON TAX TOTAL

Subdivisions Collect More Than Half of Receipts Paid During Period.

More than half of the real estate taxes collected in Richland county for the last half of the year have been paid to schools and subdivisions although the regular tax settlement is not due to begin until Nov. 1, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today.

With most of the needy districts receiving advances against the settlement, the auditor said there was no reason to hurry the regular settlement. Advances amount to $339,470, while the collection totaled about $650,000.

Largest advance payment went to the Mansfield schools which have received $185,000, virtually all of their share of the receipts. Mansfield received $75,000 and county $65,000 to help them meet their operating expenses.

Other advance draws include $3,700 to the Cass township schools; Plymouth schools, $1,500; Butler township trustees, $1,170; Lucas schools, $1,000, and the Mifflin township trustees, $400.

Survey Shows Domestic Travel Sets Record For First Half of Year

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—A domestic travel boom in the first half of 1941 that exceeds any in America's history is reported by the California State Automobile association on the basis of widespread surveys.

The increase is attributed to the step-up in industry and employment caused by the defense program. Checks at Canadian and Mexican borders showed the neighboring countries shared largely in the travel increase.

GEN. JOHNSON: Former Georgia Governor, Wife Clubbed

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — "I say to Douglas, 'If you don't keep still, you are going to be brought to Washington some day and be compelled to reveal what you have behind those (insurance) policies.

"If you don't keep still;" thus Senator Nye recently threatened Lewis W. Douglas, head of the great Mutual Life Insurance company. Why? "The newest fear" said the senator, "has been started by Lewis Douglas . . . He has declared that if Hitler should win the war, an insurance policy would not be worth the paper it is written upon."

Johnson

It is possible not to agree with the opinions of either of these gentlemen. In the present hysteria both of them are hopping pretty high. Certainly the argument about insurance on both sides is likely to cause unwarranted fear and even panic among many people whose only security is insurance for which they have saved and sacrificed for many years. Put that aside for the moment. It is this "if you don't keep still" business threatened by an influential senator that should give the public the greatest concern.

There are more kinds of censorship and gag-rules than one to choke-off freedom of expression and debate in these terrible times. We can't afford to permit any kind of gags or censorship at all.

The senator is a member of a senate sub-committee which, without any direct authority from the senate, is seeking to censor motion pictures by conducting an "investigation." These fishing expeditions are unpleasant to any victim — innocent or guilty. To threaten one of them without good cause and with "if you don't keep still" may not be technical blackmail, but it is certainly a distinctly un-American type of coercion.

As to the insurance companies and what "they have behind those policies," they have been recently investigated by a great-joint-executive-senate-house committee — T. N. E. C. They came away with a clean bill of health.

Does the senator mean now to imply that their investments behind our policies are not good? If he does not mean that, what does he mean?

And, if he means that, how is he in any sweeter odor in this matter of destroying confidence in insurance than Mr. Douglas? Douglas says that if Hitler wins the war they won't be good. Senator Nye seems to imply that they may not be any good anyway. It is pretty scurvy business on both sides.

What does Mr. Douglas mean by "if Hitler wins this war?" If he means "if Hitler conquers and subdues America, insurance policies won't be good," he is probably right. But, in spite of all the recent hysterical nonsense there is about as much danger of that as of a billiard ball growing whiskers.

But, if he means, what is more likely, some kind of a stalemate in Europe with both sides bled white, and exhausted and new governments taking over the wreckage of the old, he is as bad as Senator Nye in dragging in this insurance scare to frighten innocent people toward his point of view.

However that may be, this country can't stand for any "you keep still—or else" stuff, from legislative committees, private committees or executive action.

BOMBER SKIDS INTO HAYFIELD WITH CREW SAFE

'Miracle' Landing Made By Canadian Plane In Light of Its Own Flares.

(By Associated Press)

GREENLAND, N. H.—A twin-motored Canadian bombing plane, its bomb-racks still half loaded, skidded into a near-miracle landing in a hay field in the early morning darkness near here today, with all members of its four-man crew escaping injury.

Its gas supply nearly exhausted, the plane landed by the light of its own flares after a mission that apparently had carried it out over the Atlantic. It plowed a furrow for more than 200 feet through the 100-acre hay field before coming to rest, badly damaged but still intact.

Raymond J. Cash, a Portsmouth navy yard worker, whose house was only a few feet from the landing scene, told an Associated Press reporter that the plane still carried two big bombs in its left-hand racks.

"The right hand racks were empty," he reported.

The plane was approximately 150 miles southeast of the nearest spot on the Canadian border when it landed, and more than 200 miles from the New Brunswick line, where it adjoins northern Maine.

The four young Canadian fliers would say little, except for a remark by one of them that "we were off the track."

(A few hours earlier the U. S. navy reported one of its own planes had been forced down in rough seas due east of the tip of Cape Cod during a confidential mission, but that both the plane and its personnel had been rescued.)

A heavy guard of soldiers from the army barracks near Portsmouth was thrown around the bomber long before daylight, and soon after the sun rose the four fliers were taken to the nearby Portsmouth naval hospital for a check-up.

Mrs Cash who served the Canadians with coffee, told newsmen that they "looked like youngsters, all bundled up in heavy flying suits."

Up and Down the Street

The weather Saturday is of great concern to the Girl Scouts of two Mansfield troops who plan to repeat some of their outdoor cooking adventures which featured the day camp last summer. Troop 5 expects to be off for Maple Lake by 7 a. m armed with tin can stoves, bacon and eggs. Breakfast will be cooked under the supervision of Mrs. Richard Fensch and Mrs. K. E. Buhr. A little later in the morning Troop 14 will bicycle to the day camp site on the J. H. Nichols farm to prepare an outdoor lunch.

The examination sessions at the Mansfield Armory for prospective selectees frequently provide comedy for the boys and the examining physicians, but tragedy sometimes creeps in, too. Examiners recently found one young man with a serious heart ailment although he believed he was in good health. Another who said he had not been feeling well was found to have an incurable disease. More often, however, youths who believed they were ill or had a serious defect learn that there was nothing wrong with them. Draft board clerks pointed out that the free examinations are a real service to the registrants since many of them otherwise would not go to a physician for a thorough check-up.

This is something you'll probably think belongs in a joke book, but it's reputed to be true. A certain Mansfielder visited a phrenologist for an examination. The specialist, after reading the bumps on the Mansfielder's head, said, "It is apparent that you are of the blockhead type and a slow thinker." The visitor paid his fee and left. The next day he returned to the phrenologist's office and threatened to beat him up. He had finally realized that he had been called a "blockhead."

Charles Hebel, city street superintendent, is showing friends about the Municipal building a branch from his family tree. Information gleaned from an old family Bible owned by his great-great grandfather, shows that Hebel's family came to this country in the 1680's. His great-great grandfather died in Pennsylvania in 1742 at the age of 98 while his grandfather lived to be 108 years. Hebel is preparing copies of the transcript from the Bible to distribute to relatives.

ASSAILANT, 35, SHOOTS SELF AFTER CHASE

Talks Way Into Home, Then Uses Pistol as Club In Strange Kidnap Plot.

(By Associated Press)

LAKELAND, Ga.—Former Governor and Mrs. E. D. Rivers were clubbed on the head with a pistol at their home last night by an assailant who, finally beaten off in what police said appeared to be a bizarre kidnap plot, killed himself at a tourist camp.

Three shots were fired, Mrs. Rivers said, in a tense struggle before she and her 45-year-old husband drove the intruder from their living room. Neither was hit by bullets but she received an ugly gash over the eye and the former state executive was so badly bruised and gashed that physicians gave him a sedative

Neighbors trailed the attacker to a roadside camp outside nearby Valdosta. Police Capt. J. L. Murphy of Valdosta reported that when he and two other officers confronted the man there, he fired a pistol bullet into his mouth.

Murphy said the man, about 35 years old, carried a 1932 Pennsylvania driver's license bearing the name of Horace Waters Bikle and giving a Pittsburgh, Pa., address.

In New York, a woman identifying herself as Mrs. Horace Bikle said her husband, a former Pittsburgh school teacher, left for Georgia a month ago.

Captain Murphy said a sheet of paper, printed in pencil and found in the trailer, appeared to be a rough draft of a would-be kidnap note. He said the dead man apparently intended to force Rivers to sign it and send it to a friend while he was held under a threat of death.

Murphy said a strangely worded note suggested that he planned to attribute his action to political reasons.

The intruder gained access to the Rivers home, Mrs. Rivers said, by representing himself as an agent of the federal communications commission.

Sometimes in the course of these conversational jam-sessions the imaginations wag feverishly, and there results at least the germ of what might be translated into an Alfred Hitchcock movie plot.

You know the way it goes. It is almost a parlor game, and they do it in Milwaukee as well as in Lindy's, on Main Street as well as in Shubert Alley.

You know how it is. They sit around at the ringside tables under the bright lights, telling their tales the way children sit on a front porch on a summer night and trade ghost stories.

I am thinking of a conversation Elsa Maxwell starred in the other night, in of all places, the Roxy lobby. We were sitting around, waiting for the picture to go on, Tony Martin and Carole Landis and Elsa, and a little man whose name nobody knew but who looked like Winston Churchill.

First thing you knew somebody was saying, "It's funny that Hitler hasn't been assassinated. And somebody else ventured, "I guess he's so closely guarded, it's impossible."

Stout, merry Elsa shook her head. "No it isn't. I could have done it myself, once."

* * *

The flashback. Mr. Hitchcock, starts with Elsa going off with Mrs. Vincent Astor to be a guest of Frau Wagner at the Wagner Festival concert which Toscanini was conducting. She gets to her place, finds she has no program of the concert, and turns to the small-mustached gentleman on her left. "Will you lend me your program a moment?" she asks in rather bad German.

The man sits as if he has not heard.

Elsa tries the same sentence in better French, then in English.

Exasperated by what she is sure by now is rudeness, the redoubtable Elsa snatches the program out of his hand, reads it, and hands it back to him.

"Afterwards," she said, "they told me who the man on my left was. He was Adolf Hitler. If I'd known, and if I'd had a good long hatpin, I could have killed him."

* * *

Well, Tony Martin has never seen Hitler, and neither has Carole Landis, and the closest I ever came to Der Fuehrer was a casual invitation to meet him, which to my everlasting journalistic regret, I declined. That was in 1936, and I was flying in a Lufthansa with General Von Epp from Frankfort to Nuremberg, and as the plane banked over the little Christmas-card toytown with its windows lighting up in the blue dusk, the General said: "Why don't you stop over and lunch with Chancellor Hitler tomorrow? I know how interested he would be to meet you."

"Sorry," I said. "I'd love to but I've got to catch a train in Munich at midnight."

* * *

But you see, Mr. Hitchcock, even if I'd accepted the invitation to lunch, I wouldn't have advanced the plot any. There would have been no murder in my mind. Because that was 1936, remember, France was free then, and Belgium was a neutral nation, and Holland was a sunny, beautiful, little country that looked as clean and shining as a blue china plate. That was 1936 and Hitler was merely the leader of men who wore brown shirts.

OHIO TREASURY WATCHDOG DIES

Fails To Recover From Injury Received When Wheat Drill Overturns.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio has lost its "unofficial watchdog of the treasury."

Arnett Harbage, 69-year-old West Jefferson farmer, failed to recover from a farming accident. He died last night in White Cross hospital.

He was injured when a wheat drill overturned on his farm last Friday, only three days after the Ohio supreme court took under advisement his latest suit to enjoin payment of mileage fees to state legislators.

Harbage gave himself his "watchdog" title He told his friends he sought to protect the people's money without hope of reward for himself.

He first broke into the limelight in 1936 when he succeeded in preventing payment of $21,507 in fees to members of the Ohio house of representatives for miles never traveled and won a court order demanding return of $5,360 in fees paid state senators. He fought the case through the Ohio supreme court.

Harbage was born in Madison county and lived there all his life. He received a degree in veterinary medicine from Ohio State university in 1893. At one time before 1920 he owned a half-dozen Ohio farms and a 5,000-acre rice plantation in Georgia.

He is survived by his widow, Helen, and two daughters, Mary, Cincinnati school teacher, and Minera, Columbus dietician.

JURY'S VERDICT FAVORS BUILDER

Returns $844 Judgment In Suit Over Residence.

A jury in Richland county common pleas court late yesterday awarded R. W. Crabbs, Shelby contractor, a verdict for $844 in his suit against Mrs. Dorothy Kaercher, Greter's Lake road.

The jurors deliberated about two hours and reported at 5 p. m. yesterday. The trial lasted nearly three days.

Crabbs received the full amount he sought with interest. He brought the action for the balance he contended was due him for materials and labor for a house built for Mrs. Kaercher.

Her counsel, Atty. Lee Scanlon of Crestline, argued that his client withheld payment of the balance due on the house because workmanship on the structure was defective.

Attys Beam and Beam, Mansfield, represented Crabbs. The jury recessed after returning the verdict.

FLAMES SWEEP 7,000 ACRES OF CALIFORNIA GRAIN, 15 HOMES

SAN FRANCISCO—(U P)—A fire that swept 7 000 acres of wheat and barley in southern Solando and Napa counties today had destroyed at least 15 homes and hundreds of head of cattle and still was burning over an 18-mile front.

Fire department officials said there was a "possible" loss of life but they could not determine definitely for several hours when they hoped to have the fire controlled.

A 50-mile wind, coupled with extremely low humidity, caused a series of brush and forest fires throughout northern California.

The Marin county sheriff's office prepared to call out American Legion members to aid 2,000 soldiers in quelling a brush fire that was raging over the Fort Baker-Fort Cronkhite military reservation, opposite San Francisco near the Golden Gate bridge.

The county fire department sent all available equipment to prevent the blaze from crossing the ridge behind which lay the town of Sausalito. Shifting wind also was blowing the fire toward the Golden Gate.

Fire departments from seven towns were battling the Solano-Napa county fire, which already had done $500,000 damage. Arson was suspected because blazes broke out almost simultaneously near Dixon, near Suisun-Fairfield and in Jamison canyon, the latter in Napa county.

Five hundred soldiers and CCC enrollees were fighting a blaze in Los Padres National forest, in southern Monterey county, where valuable timber was being destroyed.

Dodgers Depend On Whitlow Wyatt To Even Series

Sport Podge by REX HESS

It will be "Hank Edwards Day" Sunday at Norwalk's Kelly field when the Willard Veterans of Foreign Wars team meets the Monroeville Grays in a baseball game at 3 p. m.

The game not only will be in honor of the former Mansfield Braves gardener, but it will be a benefit affair for the slugging young outfielder who finished the season with the Cleveland Indians.

Ordinarily benefit games aren't played for hustling young ball players who appear to have just made the major league grade, but circumstances alter cases.

It's reported that Edwards' father, who lives in Norwalk, has been critically ill for some time, and doctor bills have taken up the comparatively small salary which Edwards earned while leading the Three-I league in hitting this summer.

So Norwalk fans, proud of the success of the city's native son with the Indians, are taking this method of helping him over a tough financial crisis.

Hank will play half the game with Monroeville and half with Willard, thereby showing his appreciation to both clubs.

* * *

Persons I never suspected of being more than mildly interested have been accosting me in this fashion:

"That's going to be a whale of a ball game out there Friday night. I wouldn't miss it."

They were talking, of course, about the Mansfield-Sandusky high school football game at Stadium field, and this sudden, intense interest, indicates a big crowd for this grudge battle.

Perhaps it's the fact that it is a grudge battle, at least from Mansfield's viewpoint, that has raised this unusual interest. Mansfield wants revenge for trimmings in seasons past, and expects to get it.

The fact that Tyger followers are "talking it up" this week is the best sign in the world that they'll be there in large numbers when the game starts. And if they want to avoid the jam at the gate they should take the advice of the high school athletic department and get their tickets downtown.

* * *

The early bird can well be late,
If he gets jammed up at the gate.

Mansfield High Principal Glenn Rohleder had just complimented Tyger Tutor Paul Snyder on the coolness of the coaches' office, and had remarked that everything in it was cool but Coach Snyder.

"Why is it," he asked, "that you fellows all go crazy during the football season?"

"Well," retorted Snyder, giving the subject his most serious consideration, "I think maybe we're insane all year round, but it just comes out in the fall."

Now I know why Pop Elias wanted peace and solitude in his high school equipment room. The place was getting to be a MADHOUSE!

Lee Faces Cubs In 2nd City Series

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox called on Thornton Lee, winner of 22 games during the American league season to oppose the Cubs today in the second game of their city series. Lee was surpassed in pitching victories this year only by Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians.

The Sox won the opening game yesterday, 1-0, scoring all their runs in the first of the ninth inning before 7,272 spectators. Ted Lyons, who beat the Cubs twice in he 1940 fall series, allowed only five hits.

Claude Passeau had little trouble from the Sox until his pitching prowess folded in a ninth-inning six-hit assault.

Paul Erickson was named by Cub Manager Jimmy Wilson to face Lee today.

Record Crowd Expected

Tyger-Streak Tickets 'Go Like Hot Cakes.'

HARRY MEHOCK, director of physical education in Mansfield schools, started this morning on a frantic search for more bleachers for tomorrow night's Mansfield-Sandusky high school football game at Stadium field.

"There's going to be a record crowd out there tomorrow night," the excited Mehock declared this morning. "Tickets on sale downtown are going like hot cakes, and I've got to find some more bleachers in a hurry."

* * *

Galion and Crestline play away from home tomorrow and Mehock said he'd put in his first calls for help to those points. Madison, playing Mt. Gilead at home, will have plenty of use for its bleachers.

The record crowd for Stadium field was set last fall in the Massillon game when nearly 8,000 fans jammed the stands and stood in all available space.

Present seating arrangement of the field, with stands on both sides, and the fairground baseball bleachers on the north end is nearly 6,000.

Mehock again urged fans buying general admission tickets to get them downtown before the game to avoid waiting at the gate. Tickets are on sale at: Tawse Pharmacy, Gentral Drug store, Brown's Drug store, Paul's Friendly store, Vin Mar on Marion avenue, Yuncker Sports, and Athletic Supply.

Mansfield-Sandusky games always draw well, but this year Mansfield fans, sensing revenge for defeats handed the Tygers in years past, are making a Roman holiday of tomorrow night's battle. They want to see the Blue Streaks tossed, not to the lions, but to the Tygers.

A fair sprinkling of fans turned out last night to see the Tygers in their last hard workout before the game, and among them this sentiment was expressed often and vehemently: "I don't care whether we win another game. I want to see the boys wallop Sandusky this week."

That reflects, in some measure, the attitude of the Tygers and their coaches, except that the team and coaching staff want to win more games.

After an easy 40 to 0 victory over Akron West and an easier 39-0 win over Elyria in the first two games, there might ordinarily be some fear of a letdown on the part of the Tygers as they face twice-defeated Sandusky in the third game of the season.

But the memory of defeats in seasons past, and particularly the 32 to 21 defeat of last fall, has erased all danger of a letdown. The Tygers are out to win, and by as much as possible.

* * *

Joe Romano, reported sick on Tuesday, returned to the squad yesterday in condition to go, but Duke Weber, regular guard may not start because of an injury in the Elyria game.

CLARENCE "Sonny" Meder last night rolled the first 300 score of the season, the first perfect score of the fall in league competition, and the first on the new Colony alleys.

* * *

It was the third 300 of his pin plastering career and the second in league play. Last spring Art Hilborn, president of the Mansfield Bowling association, turned in the only perfect game of the 1940-41 season on the West Third street alleys, making his fourth 300.

* * *

Bowling with Bissman's Birdie Brands, Meder sandwiched his perfect string between games of 147 and 245 for a total of 692, which was high for last night's Class A maple mashing.

But even with his 300 count, the Bissman's couldn't beat the Eagles who took two out of the three games, including the one with the perfect score.

The Eagles rolled a 1,035 total to nullify Sonny's effort, but Bissman's, taking sudden inspiration from the Meder masterpiece, came roaring back with a 1,041 game on the last sheet to take league honors for the night.

* * *

Eagles had high total of 2,940 with a 123 handicap. A. Thomas of Orange Street Cafe rolled second high total of 622 on games of 243-224-155, Hilborn had 616 on 189-188-239, and C. Phillipon had 608 on 242-203-163.

RIGGS, KOVACS ADVANCE IN WEST COAST TENNIS

BERKELEY, Cal. — (INS) — While lower seeded players succumbed to an upsurge by unknowns, national single champion Bobby Riggs and runner-up Frank Kovacs moved unruffled today into the fifth round of Pacific Coast tennis championships.

Yesterday Riggs beat Robin Hippenstell, of the University of California, 11-9, 6-2, while Kovacs disposed of Herschel Hyde, of Berkeley, 6-0, 8-6.

Pros Play at Home Saturday

Meet Well-Organized Fort Wayne Eleven.

Mansfield's professional City News gridders will make their second appearance before the home fans Saturday night at 8 o'clock at Madison high field against the well organized St. Joe Atheltic club of Fort Wayne, Ind.

* * *

While the Mansfielders were defeated 18 to 6 at Akron Buchtel field last Sunday by the strong South Akron Awnings, they received nothing but praise from the Akron Beacon Journal, who described the City News team as a "dogged, stubborn club," and declared they outplayed the Awnings through most of the second half.

Actually the score for the last half was 6 to 6, Akron having tallied 12 points in the first quarter while the Mansfield pros were still suffering from stage fright before the crowd of over 5,000.

The City News pros were unfortunate in their season's opener at home when they found a highly touted Lorain Ex-Hi team to be poorly organized and out of condition. Lorain's failure to give serious opposition took much of the glory from the easy victory which the pros chalked up.

Their Fort Wayne opponents of this Saturday night promise just the opposite kind of a team. The club, formed in 1899, is a live organization, and has been prominent in Fort Wayne athletics for years.

* * *

Last year the St. Joe club sponsored a city championship team, and this season it is going out into tougher competition. The squad coming here is composed of 22 men, fully outfitted and uniformed, and all members of the team have played at least two years of high school, college or semi-pro ball, according to the St. Joe management.

There are no fish in the Great Salt Lake.

Rolls Third Perfect Game

SONNY MEDER

Turning in the first 300 score of the 1941-42 bowling season and the first ever rolled on the new Colony alleys, Bissman Birdie Brand Bowler Sonny Meder last night chalked up his third perfect game, and his second in league competition.

BIG RED CENTER OUT

GRANVILLE —(INS)— Denison university's Big Red will enter its Friday night game with Mt. Union minus the services of Del Johnson, senior center from Steubenville, who twisted an ankle in last week's Rio Grande game. Don Elsaesser, Canton sophomore, will start at the snapper-back post.

FALCONS PREP RUNNING

BOWLING GREEN —(INS)— A more potent running attack was the goal today of Bowling Green's coach Bob Whittaker as he prepared his Falcons for Friday's game with Akron university in the Rubber Bowl there.

TOP CROWD EXPECTED

DAYTON —(INS)— A capacity crowd was predicted today for Saturday's Dayton-Marshall clash here. Dayton, having scored 137 points in its first two games, hopes for its first victory over the Thundering Herd since 1938.

Birds Within Game of Title

Cop Third Little Classic Tilt To Press Royals.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Montreal's Royals were in the same fix as their parent Brooklyn Dodgers today—one down in a world series.

The Montreal situation was a bit more serious than Brooklyn's, however, for should the Royals lose today's game the junior classic would be over, while the Dodgers could drop this one and still have an outside chance to beat the New York Yankees.

The Columbus Red Birds, American Association champions, moved out front in the wee series last night, three games to two, by blasting three Royal hurlers for 16 hits and 23 bases for a 13-3 victory in the fifth contest.

Montreal jumped on the Red Bird ace, "Big John" Grodzicki, for three runs in the opening frame, but after that he held the Canadians to five bingles, allowing one man to reach second and another third in the final eight stanzas.

Manager Clyde Sukeforth of the Royals, faced with the chore of winning tonight's game or taking the short end of the prize money, decided he'd toss Kemp Wicker, former Yankee southpaw who played half this season with Brooklyn, on the hill.

Burton Shotton, skipper of the Birds, was in a position to gamble a bit on his mound choice, but he said he'd not make his selection until game time, which is 8:15 p. m.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Brooklyn alibi: The Yanks won, but they didn't make them bums. . . . What really hurt was the calm way the Yanks and the New York fans took it all. . . . It was the biggest world series crowd in history and one of the quietest after the Bombers started bombing. . . . Only time everybody cut loose at once was when Medwick gave an imitation of the man on the flying trapeze to take DiMaggio's "homer" right out of a $5.50 customer's hands. . . . The fans were holding their breath to give DiMag a cheer and let it go for the other Joe instead. . . . DiMag got even in the next inning with a nice running catch of Ducky's fly. . . . Durocher called it just right when he sent in Lew Riggs to hit for Owen in the seventh. . . . Keller still runs as if he had a flat wheel, but he gets there just the same. . . . He had a hard time pulling up after running for one fly and he had to slide to make it from first to third on Dickey's single in the sixth.

SALES DROPPING

Auto Purchases Decline In September, Report Shows.

Sales of new automobiles in Richland county last month dropped to the lowest mark since September, 1940, but they showed a big jump the last day of the month, figures compiled by Miss Ruth Them, registrar in the county clerk's office, showed today.

Twenty-one new cars were sold Tuesday, the final day of the month, as purchasers tried to escape the new federal tax on automobiles which went into effect yesterday.

A total of 128 new cars were sold in September as compared with 161 in August and 110 in September last year. Only 15 trucks were sold last month, lowest for any month since December, 1939.

FAT GIRLS

Here's A Tip For You

All over America Kruschen Salts is appealing to girls and women who strive for an attractive, free-from-fat figure that seldom fails to win admiration.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take ½ teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast; cut out pastries and fatty meats—go light on white bread, potaotes, butter and cream—that's all. Do this every morning. In three weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished. Notice also that you've gained in energy, your skin seems clearer, your eyes sparkle with more glorious health—you feel younger in body, keener in mind.

Leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts, (a famous English formula) plain or new effervescent — sparkling — pleasant. You can always get it at any drug store. Try one bottle; lasts 4 weeks and costs but little. If not supremely satisfied, money back.

O. K. PAYMENT OF 13 CLAIMS

County Commissioners Order $447 Paid For Sheep Killed By Dogs In September.

County commissioners today had approved 13 claims totaling $447 for sheep killed by dogs in Richland county farms in September.

The amount is slightly higher than the losses in August, but below the record for a month. Claims ranged from $3 to $154. The largest was submitted by I. C. Ward, Jefferson township farmer. Others included:

N. H. Banks, $28; C. E. Beer, $36; H. L. Bollinger, $42; E. H. Esbenshade, $6; Finney and Kinley, $18; William D. Kerr, $40; Roger Kerr, $34; T. F. McBride, $3; S. J. McCune, $32; H. S. Rine, $10; C. W. Shafer, $16; and R. A. Williams, $10.

Before the claims receive final approval of the commissioners they must be approved by township trustees. The sheep for which damages are sought must be viewed by disinterested witnesses. Claims are paid from the receipts of dog tag sales.

END OF CHASE, SIGHT UNSEEN

Deputy Gets His Man and Evidence Due To Carelessness.

GREENVILLE, S. C.—(AP)—"What's going on up there?" demanded Deputy Sheriff A. C. Gossett when, upon entering a suspected bootlegger's house quietly, he observed a pair of legs standing on a platform, the top portion of the body in the attic.

"Don't bother about that," said the partially invisible one, "just hold these for me."

He started passing down fruit jars of illicit whiskey.

Gossett waited until all jars were handed down and then set out for headquarters with the attic explorer and the fruits of his exploration.

BLACK BOOM + + + + + +

By Paul David Preston

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER XVI

"What's the meaning of this?" Anger had replaced the quick surge of fear in Martin. He couldn't see his adversaries save as masculine forms, but he could feel an iron grip on each of his wrists.

"Keep your—face shut, or you'll never open it again," the gruff voice answered him profanely.

Rough hands began digging into his coat pockets. Martin thought to jerk free and run but realized that would be futile. Even if he escaped at the moment they could shoot him. His heart was pumping so fast, his mind was in such a fury, that he couldn't quite speak again.

They found his wallet buttoned in the left hip pocket. He knew it contained about $28 and some identification papers. They pulled a ring off a finger and removed his wrist watch.

"All right, get out!" came the next command. It was accompanied by a shove up the sidewalk. Instantly he heard the two men running in the opposite direction. They cut across a lawn and into the alley that led to the railroad depot. In five minutes they could lose themselves in the shacks and warehouses of that district, Martin knew.

He himself started off at a dog trot. He turned, almost automatically, through Mrs Mayfield's front gate and ran on up her walk Lights and voices could be heard on the side porch so he opened the front hall door, called loudly and hastened on to the telephone. Because Jason had already retired for the evening. Mrs. Mayfield came downstairs.

"What is it, Martin?" she sensed his excitement. "You were shouting and—"

He was frowning impatiently at the telephone but he answered her. "I've been robbed!"

"Robbed! Martin!"

"Outside, on this very street! Two strong-arm criminals And I can't make anybody answer at the sheriff's home! He may even be in some other part of the county. There's no other officer to call that I know of."

"Oh dear!" Mrs Mayfield was appalled. "The boom—it—it has brought in all manner of people!"

"Oil madness!" he said through clinched teeth, to her and to others who had come now from the side, porch. "Thugs and swindlers and all their ilk overrunning the county. Crazy for oil money!"

"Oh!" Mrs. Mayfield looked distressed, and was almost whispering now. "And I'm a part of it! I've already signed a contract! Tomorrow morning the men will—"

But the others weren't listening to her. Martin was arguing excitedly with the telephone operator.

Dr. Tower was one who looked up Martin Deale down town next morning and offered sympathy for his being robbed. Dallas spoke in open, forthright manner.

"Heard it down at the drugstore, Martin," said he. "and wanted you to know I'm sorry. You might have been seriously hurt. If there's anything I can—"

"In which case I should have summoned some reputable physician, Tower!" He emphasized the word reputable "Please don't concern yourself."

Dallas looked disappointed. He eyed Martin keenly a moment, then spoke very quietly. 'See here, Martin, just why do you hate my guts? I've forgotten those first little disagreements! I want to get along with people." It was inelegant man-to-man talk but it was sincere. "I came in here a stranger and tried to—"

"The town is full of strangers," Martin snapped. "That's just the trouble!"

He turned and walked away: Dal Tower stood spraddle-legged for a long moment, staring after him. He had never met another man like Martin Deale. Martin was somehow unreal, an inaccurate characterization in a book. And yet human nature is what it is, Dal knew; unfathomable, full of contradictions.

Martin at the moment was going toward old Judge Brookfield's office in the bank building in answer to a personal invitation, and even though he arrived 20 minutes early more than a dozen other men were already there. One and all greeted him with politeness, almost formal. There were inquiries as to health, regrets anew about the robbery. And there was no levity at all. Patently this was a meeting with a serious purpose. Martin took a chair next to Major Billy Skiles and Edward Massenburg. Film Craig was there. So were Caswell Hightower, William G. Barry, Dr. Charles Daws from Minden, a village 12 miles away, Dr. Fonza Dane, Ex-Mayor Rosenberry, Douglas "Tex" Hope the grade school principal, and others Martin had known for years. He could hardly have selected a more distinguished group of townsmen in his estimation, and it was augmented by a dozen more before Judge Brookfield arose.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen!" The old judge thumped for order and spoke basso profundo. Conversation instantly ceased. Chairs were hitched around, men leaned forward attentively.

"Gentlemen, you are well aware of the purpose of this assembly," the judge resumed, then in characteristic manner went on to state the purpose anyway. "We are assembled to consider ways and means of preserving the established beauties and the better traditions of conduct long enjoyed in Rangeville, and which are now threatened with utter disruption."

"I refer-r-r-r," he was rising to his usual oratorical manner, "to the damnable infiltration of certain social forces caused by the development of petroleum, a development which burst upon us with the explosive suddeness of a European bombshell, and which is leaving almost a comparable path of disturbance in its wake!"

He paused, also as usual, for applause at what intuition told him was likely point for it, but this audience wasn't yet sure of his expectations. Only nods of approval were seen.

Undaunted, the judge spoke for 40 minutes, covering history from the Revolutionary war onward and setting up some philosophical gems. Perfect attention was given him. He conducted by advising that a guardianship society be organized to bring about city and county laws restricting the inroads of oil development to certain prescribed areas.

Applause did burst then. Hearty applause.

"Our beloved streets must be unsullied, beyond what is already done, by the nefarious stench of oil!" shouted the judge now. "A church is already ruined. A cotton yard is gone. There are no ordinances to prevent it and some say that any ordinance would be unconstitutional, but I say to you, gentlemen, that all law—ALL law, mind you, stems from the body politic! Those who are governed have a right to do the governing! If our present mayor and city commission is unable or unwilling to keep oil wells from defiling our very bosoms, then we can demand emergency recall!"

MOVE TO HELP FARMERS HERE

BUC Says Cooperation With WPA Will Serve To Ease Rural Labor Shortage.

Farmers who have felt the shortage of farm hands as a result of the increasing need for workers in defense industries may see a ray of hope in the fact that through co-operation with the WPA, the Mansfield unemployment bureau is now privileged to use idle WPA laborers for farm work on jobs where the prevailing wage is paid.

C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield branch of the Ohio State Employment service, urged unemployed persons in the Mansfield area to study the features of the new compensation law which went into effect yesterday.

On that date, certain changes in the existing law will be made which will affect those who have not yet filed claims for unemployment compensation, and those whose earnings fall below benefit amounts. A special pamphlet explaining Ohio's employment security program is available at the local employment bureau, Handley said.

How to make Pillsbury's
Fudge-Spice Cubes!
for lunch boxes!—for picnics!

"Easy-to-bake" recipe:

1. Sift and measure 2½ c. Enriched Pillsbury's Best Flour; add 1¾ tsps. soda and ½ tsp. salt; sift three times. (The enrichment of Pillsbury's Best does not affect its appearance, flavor, or matchless baking quality, but ADDS two important B-vitamins and iron you need every day.) 2. Cream ⅔ c. shortening; add 1¾ c. sugar gradually; cream well. 3. Add 2 eggs, one at a time; beat 1 min. after each. 4. Add 3 sqs. (3 ozs.) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled; mix well. (This luscious bittersweet chocolate in the batter means rich color and real fudge flavor in your cake!) 5. Add dry ingredients alternately with 1⅓ c. buttermilk and 1 tsp. vanilla; mix well after each addition; beat well at end. (Did you ever see such light, fluffy batter . . . such velvety smoothness? Pillsbury's Best always works that way—it's bake-proved for your protection! Every single hour during milling, samples of this fine flour are tested to assure an appetizing, creamy whiteness . . . a baking quality you KNOW is right, no matter when you use it. Moreover, actual baking tests are made four to six times daily!) 6. Turn into greased, lined 12 x 9 x 2-in. loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 40 min. 7. When cold, frost with a spiced butter frosting. Cut in squares . . . and stand by for the loveliest, the tenderest, the most unusually moist cake you've ever tasted! Pillsbury's Best is made from only those choice, fine wheats which give you moist, tender cakes that stay fresh . . . pastry that's rich, crisp, and flaky . . . bread that's golden-topped, even-grained. With Pillsbury's Best, you take no chances. It's the flour you can DEPEND on for everything you bake!

And . . . in every bag of Enriched Pillsbury's Best . . . MORE BAKE-PROVED, JURY-PICKED RECIPES FOR YOU!

Sea Drama.

"This Woman Is Mine," starring Franchot Tone with John Carroll and Walter Brennan is now showing at the Ohio. Directed by Frank Lloyd the picture tells a sea story that is full of action.

Stage Production.

"Crazy Show," a stage production featuring Shaw and Lee of radio and screen fame, ends a two-day engagement at the Madison theater tonight. The two "mighty moguls of mirth" are aided by a cast featuring Frances Wills, dancer; Jackson and Nedra, an adagio team; St. John twins, "aristocrats in balance," and "Stan Lawson," tallest of comediennes. Among the featured acts is Rolle Rolland's skit, "How to Undress With Finesse." Tom Harmon and a cast that includes approximately 60 All-Americans are playing in the football drama, "Harmon of Michigan," the feature picture. Anita Louise and Oscar O'Shea are in the cast.

Youthful Romance.

A zestful tale of youthful romance is related in "Her First Beau," the Jane Withers-Jackie Cooper comedy showing at the Park. Jackie plays a young fellow more interested in breaking his neck in a glider than "necking" on the front porch while Jane plays the girl who is also torn between juvenile pursuits and the urge to be sophisticated and grown-up. Edith Fellows, Kenneth Howell and Josephine Hutchinson are in the cast. "Riding the Cherokee Trail," is the co-attraction.

Navy Comedy.

"Here Comes the Navy," opening Friday at the Majestic, co-stars James Cagney and Pat O'Brien in a rollicking story having its action on a U. S. battleship. O'Brien and Cagney are up to their old tricks of trying to outsmart the other in every field particularly when it comes to winning the same girl. Gloria Stuart and Dorothy Tree furnish the feminine interest and the cast includes Frank McHugh. "Wild Man of Borneo," featuring Frank Morgan and Billie Burke is the second production.

Air Thriller.

"Forced Landing," with Richard Arlen begins Friday at the Ritz with Ken Maynard's picture, "The Phantom Rancher," as the second feature. "Kisses For Breakfast," with Dennis Morgan, Shirley Ross and Jane Wyatt is the current attraction plus a second thriller, "Dead Man's Shoes," with Leslie Banks, Wilfred Lawson and Judy Kelly.

WITHOUT A PENNY

FORT WORTH, Tex.—(U.P.)—The nervous young man fumbled in his pockets a moment, then ruefully admitted: "Judge, I haven't got a nickel—what does it cost to get married?" Justice of the Peace Hurley grinned, agreed that in case it could be done for nothing.

'CRAZY SHOW' DRAWS LAUGHS

Entertainers In Audience At New Stage Show Here.

Entertainers spring up from all over the house in "Crazy Show," stage production featuring Shaw and Lee which opened a two-day engagement at the Madison theater yesterday.

Following the popular pattern of fun in the aisles as well as on the stage the bill presents Lee as master of ceremonies and Shaw a, his partner in patter and pantomime. The two comedians present an intimate form of drollery that is as expressive in gesture as in words.

The bill introduces several outstanding acts in acrobatics, balancing and dancing with the St John Twins giving a new twist to an unusual balancing performance.

Frances Wills, a dancer who holds the distinction of appearing before royalty, combines acrobatics with her presentations, and Jackson and Nedra, a boy and girl dancing team, offers some trick tap steps.

Stan Lawson, tall, lanky comedian, parades across the stage with an array of entertainers and Rolle Rolland's sketch, "How To Undress With Finesse," is among the featured acts. A pit band plays for the performance.

GET PERMITS TO BUILD 3 HOMES

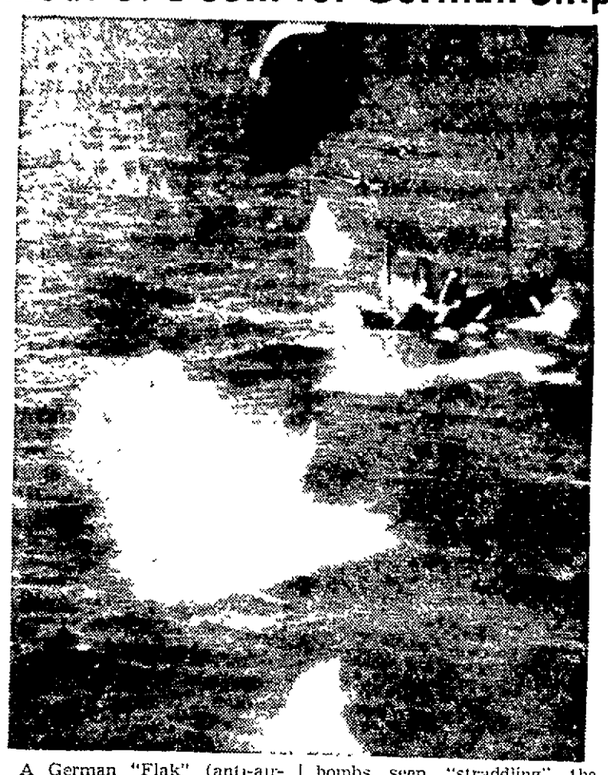
Building permits for three new residences to be erected at a total cost of $20,000 were issued yesterday.

Murray Shaffer received a permit to erect a six-room house, costing $8,000 at 431 Overlook road, also a permit to build a $600 garage at the same address.

A permit to build a seven-room house costing $7,000 at 430 Overlook road was issued to Fred Schmitt. The third permit was received by Godfrey Brumm to build a $5,000 six-room residence at 166 Gibson avenue.

The Mansfield Rapid Transit company was issued a permit for a $1,000 concrete block addition to their building at the corner of East Fourth and Scott streets.

Hour of Doom for German Ship



A German "Flak" (anti-aircraft gun) ship is attacked by three Blenheim bombers off the coast of Holland. Picture was taken from one of the bombers which had just released the stick of bombs seen "straddling" the vessel. Two other Blenheims roar to the attack just above sea level. Seconds later the ship vanished in a tremendous thunder-clap as a direct hit was scored.

GAVE AMAZING RELIEF FROM SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH

Canton man says constipation caused these symptoms; also sore, aching muscles. "Vendol is best medicine I ever took and advise everyone to try it."

MR. OTIS BRASILL
Canton Resident

Mr. Otis Brasill of 1224 Ardmore S.W., praises the grand work Vendol accomplished as follows: "Before I found Vendol, I was miserable due to constipation, and when this condition was bad I had terrible symptoms of acid indigestion, gas formed in my stomach causing painful 'heartburn', acid risings, and aggravating shortness of breath. My stomach felt tight and bloated, and many things I wanted to eat disagreed with me due to the constipation.

"I also noticed that when constipated I'd have sore, aching muscles in my arms, shoulders, and across my back.

"I have taken many things, but nothing did much good till I found Vendol, and it brought the finest, most satisfactory, temporary relief from constipation. When I get this relief I never have a sign of acid indigestion, sour stomach, gas, bloatings, headaches, or tired, aching muscles. Vendol helped me, and I'm glad to recommend it to others suffering like I used to."

When you suffer from the same cause, take Vendol, a medicine with 17 years' reputation for helping men and women who praise it by the thousands, and say it is the best compound they ever tried. Vendol is a satisfying laxative for the bowels, carminative for the stomach, and a mild diuretic for the kidneys. Give Vendol a trial today. All druggists sell it. Get the larger size bottles which save you money.

RAF CADETS ARE AMERICANIZED

Coffee Replaces Tea In Their Dinner Menu.

ARCADIA, Fla. —(AP)— Chefs at Carlstrom Field here were concerned over British appetites when Royal Air Force cadets arrived for training and were prepared to serve roast beef, kidney pudding and tea.

Instead, they found the youthful Britons preferred about the same foods as husky young Americans and in about the same plentiful quantities—with broiled, inch-thick steak, southern fried chicken and coffee topping the list.

No longer limited by the food rationing that prevails in their homeland, the boys really go for a plate of golden brown chicken, escalloped potatoes, fresh green peas and green vegetable salad—or fish, string beans, French fried potatoes and salad.

DIRECTION OF STOCK MARKET CLOUDY TODAY

Minor Price Changes Fail To Give Clear Trends; Heavy Building Awards Up.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Minor price changes either way left the stock market's direction a bit cloudy in today's early dealings.

Narrowing year-to-year improvement in both bank clearings and construction activities throughout the country were noted by market analysts.

Clearings for 23 principal cities in the week ended yesterday, as summarized by Dun and Bradstreet, were 7.2 per cent above the preceding week and 13.9 per cent above the like 1940 period but were under those of most recent weeks.

The Engineering News-Record compilation of heavy building awards for the week ended Tuesday disclosed a total 19 per cent higher than in the corresponding days a year ago but 32 per cent below last week.

SUFFERED WITH KIDNEY, BLADDER TROUBLE FOR TWENTY YEARS, BEE BEE'S GAVE RELIEF

Claims his sleep was broken several times each night by disturbing nightly risings; suffered severe pains across kidneys. Thanks Bee Bee's for splendid results.

"For nearly twenty years I had so much trouble with my kidneys and bladder that I thought I might never recover," says Mr. Thomas Cochran, Republic, Ohio.

"I took different treatments but received only temporary relief. I had sharp catches across my kidneys. These pains or (catches) were the worst when I got up in the morning, and when I had one of these attacks, I couldn't work or hardly do anything until I moved around. If I bent over to pick up something, it seemed as if the misery in my back would lay me out.

"I had to arise seven or eight times at night and when I got back to my room, I felt so weak that I would fall back into bed. My urine looked bad and burned like fire. Sometimes the urine was too free and at other times it was too scanty. I also had pains in my prostate gland and in my neck.

MR. THOMAS COCHRAN

"I took Bee Bee's and now I seldom have to get up more than once at night. I sleep well and feel fine and full of energy when I get up in the morning. Pains across my back and other above miseries were relieved and I feel twenty years younger. I have recommended Bee Bee's to others who were ailing like me and I will continue to spread the good word about Bee Bee's. It's a grand, effective medicine.

Firemen Disarm Ex-Karpis Aide In Scuffle.
